The Horses of the President Did not Run Away. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—An accident to the team which President Cleveland was driving to Woodley this evening caused alarming statements as to the safety of the President to spread quickly over the city. Mr. Cleveland left the White House at 6:30 o'clock, and, just after crossing a car-track on the city's boundary, the nigh horse slipped and fell. The other horse, becoming frightened, plunged about and himself fell over the pole of the carriage and on top of his mate. A large crowd gathered, and the frightened horses were quieted.

The President had remained cool, and stepped from the Victoria. By cutting some of the harness, the horses were liberated. A lamp had been kicked off the carriage, but other than this, the vehicle suffered no damage. The President continued to Woodley in the carriage of Gardiner Hubard.

Grover and His Veto Pen Get to Work Again-That Filled-cheese Bill-Bill Passed to Transfer a County to Oklahoma.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE) WASHINGTON, April 22.-The Ser washington, april 22.—The sen-ate today disposed of the sectarian-school question by adopting a compro-mise framed by Senator Cockrell of Missouri. The Indian bill, as it came from the House, provided that "no money herein appropriated shall, be paid for education in sectarian schools. This provision is struck out by the Cockrell amendment as adopted, and it is declared to be the settled policy of the government to make no appro-priations for sectarian schools after July 1, 1898, thus giving two years for the abandonment of sectarian schools instead of an immediate abandon-ment. The amendment was adopted by the decisive vote of 38 to 24. The Indian bill was not completed when the Senate adjourned.

During the day the bill was passed providing for government regulation of excursion fleets attending regattas, also the resolution calling for information as to the arrest of Bishop Diaz in Cuba. The President's vetoes of two pension bills brought some criticism from the chairman of the Committee on Pensions, Senator Gallinger, but no action was taken on the vetoes beyond referring them.

The House today entered upon the consideration of the General Pension Bill reported from the Invalid Pension Committee. It amends existing pen sion law in some respects. Mr. Pick-ler, chairman of the committee, ad-dressed the House for three hours in support of it.

Before the pension bill was taken up,
Mr. Goodwin (Pop.) was seated in place of Mr. Cobb (Dem.) from the Fifth Ais-bama District. FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

REGULAR SESSION. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) WASHINGTON, April 22.—SENATE The President's vetoes of two pension bills were laid before the Senate today. Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, chairman of the Pension Committee, said he regretted that the President had seen fit to veto these bills. Capt. Allabach's military services were such Allabach's military services were such that he might have applied for a pension, but did not do so, owing to per-sonal disinclination. While Jones was a photographer, he received the gunshot wound resulting in total blindness during the attack on Longstreet's line during the attack on Longstreet's line.

"The President refers to a trivial wound," said Senator Gallinger, "I will not discuss, and suggest what is in my mind, that the message was written without the knowledge of the facts.
The Pension Committee had not proceeded carelessly and recklessly in favoring the pensions."
"I bold," said Senator Palmer of Illinois, "that when a citizen voluntarily

I noid, said Senator Palmer of Illinois, "that when a citizen voluntarily associates himself with military forces, he becomes de facto in the military service, and, if wounded, he has the same moral right to a pension as any one formally enlisted."

The vetoes were referred to the Pension Committee. Many petitions came urging action in behalf of Bishop Diaz, arrested in Cuba. A resolution by Mr. Bacon of Georgia was adopted, requesting the State Department for information as to the arrest, and as to what steps had been taken toward securing an impartial trial.

Senator Sherman, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported a resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee of five Senators to proceed to Alaska and inquire into the condition of the fishing industry, the preservation of the fur seals, the development of the country, but fixing the boundary line between Alaska and British North America. The resolution provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall place a suitable vessel at the disposal of the Senators when they reach Sitka.

Senator Mitchell of Oregon was then recognized for a speech in support of the bill extending the present law pensioning veterans of Indian wars, so as to include the survivors of the Georgia and Florida Seminole wars, the Fevre-River Indian war of Illinois, the Sabine Indian disturbance, the Cayuse Indian wars in Texas, New Mexico and California, Utah, Washington and Oregon, mentioned in the bill. Senator Mitchell appealed to the Senator in the name of common humanity and justice to pass the bill at once. on humanity and justice to pass the Senator Gray of Delaware objected to going on with the bill, saying he wanted more light on some of these Indian wars. The bill went back to the calendar.

Consideration of the Indian Appropriation Bill was then resumed, Senator Cockrell speaking in support of his amendment to allow two years for the change from sectarian and government Indian schools.

amendment to allow two years for the change from sectarian and government Indian schools.

Senator Allen of Nebraska deprecated sectarian bigotry. He said he was the son of a Protestant minister, but this did not lead him to approve of any proscription based on the religious associations of a citizen. He deplored the fact that the flag of intolerance should be raised in the American Congress, after Protestants and Catholics had for 120 years served together in the army and navy, in peace and in war, in the advancement of the country. Senator Allen spoke of the great work of the Catholic Church in carrying the torch of civilization in one hand and the gospel of Christ is the other.

Senator Peffer expressed astonishment that, with hundreds of denominations existing, some Senators sought to pick out one denomination for eulogy, He believed the way to abolish a hurtful policy was to abolish it. There was no reason for delay in doing away with sectarian schools. The vote was then taken on the Cockrell amendment, declaring the policy of the government to be against sectarian education, but allowing until 1898 for the entire change from sectarian to government schools. The vote resulted in the adoption of the Cockrell amendment, by 38 to 24. The detailed vote is as follows:

Yeas—Republicans: Senators Carter, Chandler, Eikins, Hansbrough, Hawley, McMillan, Mantle, Nelson, Pettigrew, Sewell, Sherman—II. Democrats: Bacon, Bate, Blackburn, Brice, Caffery, Chilton, Cockrell, Daniel, Faulkner, Gibson, Gordon, Gray, Hill, Jones of Arkansas, Martin, Mills, Mitchell of Wisconsin, Palmer, Roach, Smith, Turple, Vest, Villas, Walthall, White—25. Nays—Republicans: Senators Milson, Brown, Burrows, Cannon, Clark, Cullom, Davis, Dubois, Frye, Gallinger, Gear, Lodge, McBride, Mitchell of Oregon, Perkins, Platt, Shouf, Squire, Teller, Warren, Wolcott—21. Democrats: Senator George—1. Populists: Senators Peffer and Stewart—2. At the request of Senator Hoar, he was given leave of absence for the balance of the session. And, then, at 5:15 o'clock, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE—The Fifth Alabama District was not represented in the House over night. Mr. Cobb had been unseated, but the seating of the contestant went over until today when the report was adopted by a vote of 145 to 55 and Goodwin was sworn in.

On motion of Mr. Cockrell of Texas, a bill was passed to organize the Territory heretofore known as Greer county, Texas (decided by the Supreme Court to be a part of Oklahoma) as Greer county, Oklahoma. By an amendment adopted, the present county officers were confirmed in their tenure until the election in November next.

On motion of Mr. Lacy of Iowa, another bill was passed to organize the Territory heretofore known as Greer county, of the measure of the service of the provides that described to 160 acres each, and providing for homesteading the rem

NASHVILLE (Tenn.,) April 22.-The Republican State Convention, which met today, is the largest gathering of Re-publicans ever assembled in the State. Judge Lewis Sheperd was chosen temorary chairman.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the convention reassembled. Permanent or-ganization was effected by the election of G. W. Winstead chairman. The platform adopted renews the party's deform adopted renews the party's devotion to reciprocity, protection, sound finances, progress and human liberty; demands a readjustment of the tariff so as to afford protection reasonable and adequate; calls for reciprocity agreements; condemns the administration of Cleveland; indorses the Nicaragua Canal; demands the early adoption of a policy that will bring the war in Cuba to an end, and for an appropriation by Congress for the Tennessee Centennial Exposition.

The financial plank is as follows: "We are unalterably opposed to any scheme that will give to this country a depreciated and debased currency. We favor the use of sliver as currency, but to the extent only that its parity with gold will be maintained, and in consequence are opposed to a free and unlimited and independent coinage of sliver at the ratio of 16 to 1. We believe that every American dollar should be an honest, 100-cent dollar, always and everywhere."

The platform instructs also the delegates for McKinley for President and for H. C. Evans of Tennessee for Vice-President. E. J. Sanford of Knoxville, H. C. Evans of Chattanooga and J. C. Jeffreys were elected delegates to St. Louis by acciamation. On the second ballot Ernest Caldwell of Shelbyville, was elected fourth delegate, defeating J. C. ALABAMA NOMINATIONS. MONTGOMERY, (Ala.;) April 22.— The Democratic State Convention which organized yesterday, reconvened this morning and nominated the fol-lowing State ticket: For Governor, CAPT. JOSEPH F. JOHNSTON.

Secretary of State, HON. JOHN KIRK JACKSON, renominated. State Treasurer, MR. ELLIS of Dallas county. State Auditor, W. S. WHITE of Col-pert county.

The resolutions adopted advocate the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1; instruct the twenty-two delegates from the State to vote as a unit on all ques-tions at the Chicago convention; also advocate the repeal of the 10-per-cent. State bank tax: favor honest elections and the legalizing of primary elections. plauded every mention of Cleveland's name, and adopted a resolution indors ing his foreign policy and the appointment of Southern men to Cabinet positions, but disapproved of his financia policy. The votes in the various stages of the convention's progress, showed the relative strength of the two faction to be about 333 to 161 in favor of Capt Johnston and the free-silver men, and against the Democrats, who, under the leadership of Congressman Clark, hold to the financial policy of the national administration SO NEAR AND YET SO PHARR. NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—The Item's bulletin board contains the following: "Pharr has been elected Gov-ernor. The Item will prove this fact by the evidence of 270 Pinkerton detectives, who were present yesterday at the polls where the fraud was carried out.

"BORWICK (La.,) April 22.—I have been elected Governor by the votes that were put in the ballot-boxes, and will be inaugurated on the second Tuesday in May.

(Signed "'J. L. PHARR.'"

The outlook is that Foster's majority on the face of the returns will be about 20,000, although the Republicans claim they have a majority of the votes cast, and will probably attempt to seat their candidate, as the Legislature is close. The Democrats, however, claim a majority of twenty on joint ballot. The great Democratic loss, from 70,000 majority in 1892 in the State, is attributed largely to the organization of the najority in 1882 in the State, is attributed largely to the organization of the national Republican party by the sugar planters and the combination entered into by all Republicans and the Populists. In 1892 the Democrats polled about 20,000 more votes than their opponents in this city, while in yesterday's election their majority will not exceed 2000 for Governor.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.-A dis NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—A dispatch from St. John Baptist parish states that a crowd of negroes attempted to steal the parish ballot boxes. Five whites resisted. Shooting followed, and several were killed. The Governor has ordered a company of the Louisiana field artillery to the scene of the trouble. A LATER REPORT.

The report that negroes were killed there this morning was untrue. Demar, the Republican, has taken possession of two or three ballot-boxes and sent them to St. John Courthouse. It is stated that Demar has a well-armed body of several hundred negroes. Violence is feared. A call was made on the Gov.

PROTECTION, RECIPROCITY AND GOLD.

NEW HAVEN (Ct.,) April 22.—Excongressman William E. Simmonds was made permanent chairman of the Republican State Convention today. Ex-Gov. Morgan G. Bulkley, John I. Hutchinson. Arthur Brewer and Samuel Fessenden were elected delegatesat-large. The platform opens with a declaration in favor of a protective tariff and a reciprocity plan.

Upon the currency question, the convention says: "We are unalterably opposed to the issue of unsecured paper currency either by the government or banks, and the free coinage of silver at any ratio, and favor a single standard of value, and that standard gold. We believe this policy, with a sound and stable currency upon a gold basis, will furnish sufficient revenue to meet all requirements of the government and properly support it." The electoral vote of Connecticut is pledged to whoever may be the Republican nominee for the Presidency.

On the call of Chairman Simmonds for the county district delegates, the various county chairmen reported the nominations made at last night's caucuses. These the convention ratified.

In less than an hour from the time the convention was called to order, its business was finished and adjournment followed. Neither Reed nor McKinley were mentioned in the convention. Among the delegates, however, there was considerable enthusiasm for these two aspirants for the Presidential nomination. No other candidates seemed to be thought of.

BALTIMORE (Md.,) April 22.—United States Senator-elect George L. Welling-ton, as chairman of the State Central Committee, called the Maryland Repub-

Committee, called the Maryland Republican State Convention to order today. Wellington predicted that the sixteen electoral votes of Maryland would be east next year for Republican nominees. The mention of McKinley and Reed evoked applause.

The platform declares for protective tariff and reciprocity. Following is the currency plank: "We believe in a gold standard upon which to base our circulating medium, and are opposed to free and unlimited coinage of silver until international agreement shall give silver larger use." No instructions are given the delegates to the national convention.

tenhouse of Baltimore were elected alternates.

Gen. Adam E. King and J. Cootman Boyd. both of Baltimore, were chosen Presidential electors-at-large. It was almost 5 o'clock before the report of the Committee on Resolutions was reached. As soon as the report was read Hammond Urner, a delegate from Frederick county, offered as a substitute the resolution previously offered, instructing the delegates to use every honorable means to secure the nomination of McKinley at St. Louis. This evoked the greatest enthusiasm of the day. Urner made a stirring speech in favor of his resolutions and the applause was repeated.

Sidney E. Mudd. Speaker of the Maryland House of Representatives, followed in opposition to the Urner resolution. After further discussion, a vote was taken by counties, resulting in the decisive defeat of the McKinleyles by a vote of 98 to 15, even the Frederickfor McKinley casting a majority of county delegates, who were instructed for McKinley, casting a majority of their votes against the amendment. As soon as the result was announced. Douglas A. Hargett, also from Freder Douglas A. TELEPHONES IN A CONVENTION ST. LOUIS, April 22.—When the Republican National Convention meets in this city on June 16, to nominate a President and Vice-President of the United States, the delegates will witness an innovation in the manner of handling a big convention. It is a scheme proposed by the Bell Telephone Company, through its local manager, George Towers.

The proposition is something entirely new and original, and although it has not yet gone before the sub-committee having charge of the convention arrangements, it is said to be practically assured that it will be adopted. It is connect the various State delections to connect the various State delegations with the Speaker's desk by telephone, so that the chairman may know the name of every man who is recognized, and thus be able to announce his name to the convention.

In order to be able to handle the great press of business, the Western Union Telegraph Company is stringing six new copper wires from St. Louis to Chicago, and four from here to New York. This will give this city the best telegraphic connections with the outside world it has ever had. About fifty loops will be run into the convention hall. The postal company is also making preparations for the convention. Three new copper wires are being strung between this city and Chicago, and two more from here to New York city direct.

ARMS AND MEN. NOT DISPOSED TO BE FRIENDLY

KEY WEST, (Fla.,) April 22.-The schooner Competitor, commanded by Alfred Laborde left this port about midnight last night with arms and men for Cuba. The schooner carries sixty Cubans and Americans. It is said to have aboard 800 rifles, 600 revolvers, 500 machetes and 150,000 rounds of am-munition. The Competitor proceeded have aboard 800 rifles, 600 revolvers, 500 machetes and 150,000 rounds of ammunition. The Competitor proceeded to Sugar Loaf key, twenty-five miles north of here, where more munitions and arms were taken on board. It is said that the Cubans waiting on Sugar Loaf key have three rapid-fire guns, after getting the arms and men at Sugar Loaf key the Competitor was to be met by the steam tug George W. Childs, which had been engaged to tow the schooner to Cuba. Laborde told his friends the expedition would land in Pinar del Rio province tonight.

The schooner slipped out under the nose of the revenue cutter Merrill. When it was learned that it carried arms and men, the customs officers ordered the Merrill to pursue her, but the schooner had too good a start to be overtaken. Alfred Laborde, who commanded the expedition, is a wealthy Cuban of Tamps. Cuban leaders here say that as soon as Maceo receives the ammunition carried by the Competitor an attack will be made upon the troops.

The other veto was in the case of the widow of Peter H. Allabach, who served both in the Mexican and the war of the rebellion. "It is proposed," says the President, "by the special act under consideration to give this widow a pension of $30 a month without the least suggestion of the death or disability of her husband having been caused by his military service and solely, as faras discoverable, upon the ground that she is poor and needs money. successor's efforts to preserve the peace and maintain the honor and interests of the empire."

With reference to the colonies, Chamberlain declared there were two governing factors in the situation in South Africa. The first was that England must be the paramount power, and would at all risks and costs, resist any foreign interference. The second was that, owing to the peculiar situation, the Dutch would likely for many years be in the majority, and it was the duty of statesmen to do their utmost to maintain the friendship between the English and Dutch in Cape Colony, he said, were as loyal as the French Canadians, but they sympathized with their kindred in the two neighboring republics. Definite Official Announcement t Delayed-Special Meeting of the Chamber of Deputies Called. Press Comment.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) PARIS, April 22.—It is reported this fternoon that President Faure has alafternoon that President Faure has already accepted the resignation of the Cabinet. It is not expected that the definite announcement of the acceptance of the Cabinet's resignation will be made until morning. A meeting of the Chamber of Deputies was specially called for Thursday at 2 o'clock. It is generally believed that President Faure will endeavor to form a Cabinet of conciliation and concentration. M. Peytral, M. Meline and M. Bourgeols are mentioned as probable premiers.

PARIS, April 22.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The Conservative and Moderate Republican newspapers this morning applaud the Senate for the stand it has taken against the Bourgeois ministry, and say they believe it impossible for the Premier to remain in office, even should the Chamber of Deputies give him another vote of confidence. The Radical and Socialist organs reproach M. Bourgeois for having "bowed before the Senate's vote," and speak of his "intended resignation as desertion and abdication." COMMENT.

intended resignation as desertion and abdication."

In some quarters the formation of a new Cabinet is regarded as difficult, in view of the attitude of the Radicals and Socialists. According to Matin, M. Brisson considers it quite anomalous for a Cabinet to announce its intention to dismember before placing its resignation in the hands of the President.

According to the generally-expressed opinion, a new Moderate ministry would not ease the situation. The Socialists, it is said, are much excited and intend to employ the most violent language by every means of intimidation to prevent the working of the present constitution in order to develop the agitation for revision of the constitution.

Any Moderate Premier, it is added, would be driven to daily struggles against the Socialists, leading to uproarious scenes, and it is understood that M. Bourgeois will profit by the vote of confidence which may be made in the Chamber of Deputies tomorrow. Many Radicals do not desire to retain M. Bourgeois as Premier, merely to assert their political convictions in view of the fact that an appeal to the electorate is in prospect.

BARON DE HIRSCH. thropist Will Be Missed, (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

thropist Will Be Missed,
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

LONDON, April 22—(By Atlantic Cable.) The newspapers here this morning are full of accounts of life and death of Baron de Hirsch, the distinguished Hebrew philanthropist, telling of the loss which his death will be to charities, the turf and especially to royalty, to members of which it has long been common gossip he lent vast sums of money, matters which are much discussed in the clubs.

The Chronicle published a memoir written by some one who was evidently intimate with Baron de Hirsch, and who is believed to be his secretary. This writer says the death of the Baron may make complications in at least one European court, if the executors are obdurate in collecting money.

It appears that the Baron received some four hundred begging letters daily, many of them from English people who will shrink to see them published. The tragedy of Baron de Hirsch's life was the death of his son. Almost ascetic himself, he regarded with contempt the habits of comfortable classes and was bitterly satirical in regard to the indulgences of the rich. Baron de Hirsch, it is asserted, never entered a synagoge after his majority, but he was radically proud of being a Hebrew.

The Dally News publishes a dispatch from Paris, saying the death of Baron de Hirsch is a severe loss to the Orleans princes, especially to Prince Henry. According to his marriage settlement, the survivor should inherit one-half, but it is understood the Baroness agreed with her husband that a number of donations should be made in the name of both after the decease of the other, so that only about £4,000,000 will remain at her free disposal. The dispatch says Baron Hirsch will be buried in Paris on Sunday.

GY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) WASHINGTON, April 22.-Three hunconference to promote the propaganda or international arbitration which has een supported by many religious and ecular organizations since the Vene-uela boundary dispute first inspired talk of war with Great Britain and the United States. There were several prominent publicists and business men prominent publicists and business men conspicuous in the proceedings, but the rank and file of the delegates—who number some three hundred, and came from most of the States and Territories—were educators and clergymen. There was a notable absence of government officials, for, although invitations had been extended to the President, his Cabinet the Supreme Court all memorals. Cabinet, the Supreme Court, all members of both houses of Congress and many others of the political circles, and though the cobperation of many of many others of the political circles, and though the cobperation of many of these dignitaries had been counted upon, not one of them put in an appearance at the afternoon meeting.

The proceedings of the first session were entirely harmonlous, the speeches dealt in generalities upon the beneficence of arbitration. No utterances were made which might tend to embarrass the administration in the conduct of pending diplomatic negotiations with England or Spain. Before the meting, Secretary Olney was visited by a committee who outlined the plans for the conference, and submitted for his approval the resolutions which would be presented to the conference tomorrow. The Secretary of State found nothing to criticise in the resolutions, and expressed sympathy with the objects of the meeting. Although no references were made to present international questions, the whole tenor of the speeches was toward an agreement for arbitration between the two English-speaking nations.

tional questions, the whole tenor of the speeches was toward an agreement for arbitration between the two English-speaking nations.

Gardiner G. Hubbard of Washington called the conference to order, and his introduction of the temporary chairman, ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster, as "the arbitrator between China and Japan," evoked applause.

After a few words of welcome in behalf of the local committee and the municipal authorities of Washington, Mr. Foster said:

"I cannot refrain from expressing my pride at the record which our cause has made in the past half-century of unbroken peace, with all the nations of the earth, and of a steady adherence to the settlement of international differences by the pacific method of arbitration—a record almost without parallel among the nations of the earth. You have not, therefore, assembled to recommend to our government any new departure in its policy on this subject, but rather to strengthen and confirm it in the policy so long and so consistently followed.

"Compulsory arbitration between nations presents problems and difficulties not easy of solution. It will be a great gain to the cause if out of our deliberations a plan shall be evolved which will meet the objections and solve the difficulties. It seems a utopian idea to anticipate a general disarmament of nations in our generation; and until barbarism and the spirit of conquest and oppression shall be benished from the earth, governments will be forced to maintain armies and navies. But certainly among people who profess to be governed by the principles of a common Christianity, and especially between nations kindred in lineage, language and institutions, a better method of adjusting the differences which must arise between them must be found than by the bloody arbitrament of war."

Next Judge Daly, for the Committee on Permanent Organization, reported the selection of the following officers: President, Hon. George F. Edmunds; also a list of vice-presidents representing every State in the Union, and including the following: Colorado, N. P. Hill; California, John T. Valentine; Montana, G. W. H. de Witt; Nevada, J. W. Adams; Oregon, D. S. K. Buick; Utah, George Q. Cannon; Washington, Gov. John H. McGraw; Wyoming, Gov. W. A. Richards.

Gov. John H. McGraw; Wyoming, Gov. W. A. Richards.

Mr. Edmunds was escorted to the platform, and in a graceful speech, he said: "This assemblage, representing the largest civilized homogeneous body of men and women on the globe, is extraordinary. The United States is among the strongest nations of the world. It has the least reason of any great nation, in a mere selfish sense, to wish for arbitration. It is strong enough, in any but the most absurd cause, to defend itself, to promote its policies and to carry on war, but its very strength impels it to be back-ward."

armies of the world, like that of the United States, would be a mere police body. The force of public opinion must be as constant as the law of grayfistion for solving the difficult problem of ending war. The time would come when armies, for aggressive purposes, would be dissolved and the angel of peace would blow her trumpet over all the world."

A letter from Chief Justice Fuller was read conveying the regret that his health and public duties would prevent him from testifying by his presence his approval of the great cause of the convention. Also a letter from Andrew Carnegie, who referred to the movement as "the noblest cause of this generation," and who in a postscript mentioned the inclosure of a check for $1000 to help defray the expense of the meeting.

generation," and who in a postscript mentioned the inclosure of a check for 51000 to help defray the expense of the meeting.

In the course of general business, John Deniphan of St. Joseph, Mo., created no little stir by moving that Carnegic's gift be returned to him, because Carnegie had made his wealth through contracts to furnish the government, with munitions of war.

"And." he continued, "the press charges him, whether justly or unjustly, of making large profits by stinting the employe's in his works."

He declared that the Boards of Trade of the country should pay the expenses of the meeting, and it would be a humiliation to accept Carnegie's gift. The motion was opposed by Delegate Weeks of Pittsburgh, editor of the from Manufacturer, and was buried under a large majority.

The night session of the conference attracted a large audience. The speakers were Hon. Carl Schurz of New York, President Angell of Michigan University, and Edward Atkinson of Boston. President Angell took issue with most of the speakers in a ringing declaration that the United States should stand ready to fight for honor and her territory. Each of the speakers at the night session touched upon current questions.

President Angell said the practical difficulties in establishing a general court of arbitration for several uptions are very serious, even if all the principal powers are ready for it, but we have no evidence that they are ready." It is, however, not extravagant to hope that such a course may be set up by Great Britain and ourselves. Possibly we are more in danger of drighting into war on slight occasions than we were forty years ago. We have brought out of our civil war a new consciousness of military strength which has its temptations and its dangers. One of the great advantages of a compulsory resort to arbitration its that time must be gained for reflection."

In conclusion he said: "Our army is now hardly large enough for the police power which it is liable to be called upon to exercise. But let us make no claims on oth ence."

Mr Schurz held arbitration to be practical, because eighty disputes had been settled by that method in this country, and had stayed settled, while country, and had stayed settled, while the results of great wars had not stayed settled, but had been subject to the shifting of power.

Atkinson's speech was largely a plea for the abolition of privateering. 'Cit-les should be declared free from bom-bardment and spoliation, making such reservation for the defenses of the har-bors as would forbid the ships of any petty State from entering by force. petty State from entering by force, "Why," he asked, "should it be the duty of officers of the navy to do what would disgrace officers of the army."

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE) CINCINNATI (O.,) April 22.—The murdering Pearl Bryan, moved in a gallop today. Six witnesses were ex-amined in the forenoon, and four in the afternoon: The purpose of the examinations in the forenoon was to establish the identity of the headless body found near Fort Thomas, as that of Pearl Bryan, and to prove that she was mur-dered at the very spot where she was found. The identity of the body was strikingly proven by the abundant evi-dence that the bloody check dress was Pearl Bryan's, also the shoes, stockings, the hat and the b stained underwear. Expert testing of Coroner Tingley, Surgeons Caroth ers and Joe Jenkins was introduced to prove by the condition of the body as they found it, that the killing was done they found it, that the killing was done just where the body was found, and the health of the victim was perfect.

In the afternoon the defense began to cross-examine witnesses. It then became apparent that the defense, by its failure to cross-examine in the forenoon, virtually admitted that the body in question was that of Pearl Bryan. SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—The trouble in the First Congregational ch over the actions of its pastor, C. O. Brown, does not seem to be ended with the minister's suspension last night by the Bay conference of Congregational churches, Dr. Brown has announced that he is in the hands of the officers of his church, and that he believes a majority of the deacons and trustees are favorable to him. He has also said that he will probably continue to preach in the First Congrega-tional Church, and that he will cer-tainly occupy the pulpit next Sunday, His friends say that the verdict of the council was a complete surprise to him, as he had confidently expected that the loyal friends who rallied around him rould be able to carry a favorable vote.
Mrs. Sarah B. Cooper, whom Brown

made his assistant pastor, and who has been leading the fight against the pastor, says that the church is declining, and that the trustees must force Brown to retire. Many promi-nent Congregationalists believe Brown will resign without making a further will resign without making a further fight against the combined influence of many parishioners, backed by the influence of the conference. Many prominent and wealthy members continue to stand by him, however, and it is not improbable that he may start an independent church in this city.

Mrs. Mary A. Davidson, whose arrest by Brown for blackmail precipitated all the trouble in the church does not attempt to coneceal her gratification at the defeat of the pastor. She says she will place him behind prison bars for slander and perjury, and threatens other accusers with similar punishment. She is preparing a lecture attacking Dr. Brown.

She is preparing a lecture attacking Dr. Brown.

The prayer meeting held at the First Congregational Church tonight did not touch on the sensational, as it was expected to do. The meeting was a very quiet one. Dr. Brown presided. His sympathizers seem to be greatly in the minority, judging by a petition now being circulated among the members requesting Dr. Brown to quit the church. The petition will be presented next Wednesday night. In the meantime, if Dr. Brown gains adherents and the opposition should be in the minority, the case will probably be taken to the courts for decision. Dr. Brown announces that he will preach next Sunday.

Miss Baker regards her adventures on the road as a good joke, and says she would be willing to begin the trip all over again, and, with better weather, would walk all the way.

"We left Los Angeles," said Miss Baker, "last Friday morning at 8 o'clock. We had some money, but not enough to pay our fare all the way, and then, besides that, we thought it would be lots of fun to walk and see the country. We put on our bloomer suits because we thought they would be better to walk in. All that day we tramped along the railroad track. We got to San Fernando that evening, and then we didn't walk any more. We found a freight train in the statum there and we told the trainmen that we were making a cycling tour, but had lost our wheels by an accident. We told the conductor we had to get to San Francisco to win a bet, and he took pity on us and let us ride in a boxcar. After we had ridden there a few miles he called us into the caboose, and we rode there the rest of the way into Santa Barbara. SUGAR PLANTERS' CASES,

THE BOUNTY APPROPRIATION UN-Supreme Court Decision as to Their Constitutionality is Being Sought-Asst. Atty.-Gen. Whitney

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.)
WASHINGTON, April 22.—(Special Dispatch.) The test cases instituted by the sugar-planters of Louislana against the United States government for the purpose of establishing the constitu-tionality of the boundary appropriation came up for hearing in the United States Supreme Court today. The cases in question are those of Andrew H. Gay and the Realty Company of Louislana in which the United States Circuit Court for the eastern district of Louislana rendered a decision in favor of the plaintiffs and against the government. From this decision the government. ment. From this decision the govern ment has appealed the cases to the United States Supreme Court.

The sugar-planters were represented by a strong array of council today, among whom were Joseph Choate of New York, ex-Senator Manderson of Nebraska, Col. J. D. Hill and J. K. Som-erville of New Orleans and Alexander Porter Morse of Washington. Assistthe government. Controller Bowler, through whose arbitrary assumption of power the bounty appropriation was suspended, sat in the courtroom throughout the proceedings, and was one of the many interested spectators at the hearing. It had been previously arranged so that two hours would be consumed today by seek of the party of the process of the same of the process of the proc consumed today by each of the oppos-ing counsel, but the arrangement was disturbed, owing to the hearing given in the Pacific Railroad cases. "We stayed in Santa Barbara all day, and then walked eight miles to the next station, and there caught another freight-train, and, after a little talk with the conductor, he let us ride to San Luis Obispo.

"At San Luis Obispo we saw the steamer Corona at the wharf, and decided to change our way of traveling. We had a little more than $20 between us, and so we bought tickets for San Francisco and went on board the steamer. We were treated just as well as we could wish all the way. Nobody troubled us. On the walking part of the trip we were not molested. When we got hungry we would go into a hotel or boarding-house and ask the man in charge for food, and we got it, too. The men would laugh when we told them we were 'broke,' and would give us our meals. If it had not been for the windy weather we would have walked all the way to San Francisco. We had lots of fun, tried some new ways of traveling, and I do not regret my experience a bit." He spoke for upward of an hour, when the court adjourned. He will continue his argument tomorrow morn-ing for another hour, when he will be followed by ex-Senator Manderson on behalf of the beet-sugar interests of Nebraska and California. Argument today consisted in the reading of several propositions contained in the brief of Assistant Attorney General Whit-ney. He also made discursive ar-gument on some of the proposi-tions contained in the briefs of these defendants in error. This was made, thus far, without reference to any authority, Mr. Whitney having confined himself largely to the history of Congressional legislation, and the position of the early statesmen of the country in reference to bounties, declar-ing that the statesmen had opposed bounties by name. During his argument he was fre-quently interrogated by Associate Jus-tices Brown, Shiras, Harlan and Gray, and the nature of the questions indi-cated that they did not agree with the proposition of Mr. Whitney.

INTERNAL DISSENSIONS.

American Bank of Denyer Closed Its Doors. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

The first case of the kind came up for trial before Judge Joachimsen yesterday. It will probably be made a test case. Monday night Sergt. McManus and a posse raided the Chinese Union Merchants' Club, and arrested thirty-two men who were deep in the mysteries of "pi kow," a new game, which has succeeded fan-tan, and which is played with dice and dominoes. The "lay-out" is simple, and can be hidden in a moment. The squad, however, succeeded in securing all the implements used in the game, and saw some of the betters place their stakes.

As neither side was ready to proceed yesterday morning a continuance was obtained until this morning.

Four of these incorporated "clubs" now exist in Chinatown, and as they have ample bank accounts at their disposal, a hard fight will be made before Judge Joachimsen today to secure a dismissal. An intelligent Oriental, who was found in the Chinese Union Merchants' Club, said: "We claim the same immunity from arrest as the members of the Pacific Union, University, Cosmos and other clubs would arrest if the police should visit them when a game of 'draw' or 'freeze-out'. was in progress. We are organized for social and benevolent purposes, and to afford our members a place to pass a social evening. If they care to engage in a game of dominoes or cards, our corporation gives us the right. We shall make a fight on this line." DENVER, April 22.-The American National Bank failed to open this morn-ing. The following notice was posted: "This bank has closed its doors by a vote of the directors, and is in my vote of the directors, and is in my hands as a representative of the government." The notice was signed Zeph T. Hill. The failure does not come as surprise, nor indicate any fack of confidence in the general business situation. The condition of affairs of the hank has been weak for a long time because of internal dissensions. The retirement from the directorate and the sale of stock of several wealthy men materially reduced the business of the bank.

At the last report, made at the close of business on March 6, the total deposits were $1,471,951; loans and discounts, $1,128,271; cash on hand, $232,266; capital shook, $500,000; surplus, $150,000. The assets amount to $2,245,173 and ft is claimed that there will be but little trouble in realizing on this.

The run on the Bank of Commerce ended about noon. All-demands were promptly met. At the other banks the deposits exceeded the withdrawals. President John R. Hanna of the American National Bank, in a published statement over his signature, says: today brought many delegates to the Grand Army Encampment, which opened this afternoon. They were re-ceived at the depot by comrades with deposits exceeded the withdrawals.

President John R. Hanna of the American National Bank, in a published statement over his signature, says:

"The shrinkage of deposits and but few new customers to replenish the losses and the inability to collect our bills resulted in our inability to continue our business. I believe the depositors will eventually receive the entire amount due them. We have $350,000 excess of assets (exceeding our capital) over our liabilities. The stockholders may be assessed $500,000 more if necesary to pay the depositors. With this surplus I cannot see any loss to them."

D. F. Moffatt, president of the First National Bank, said that the failure was a weeding-out process which would not have any disastrous effect. The Denver Clearing-house offered to advance $300.000 to tide the bank over the crisis in its affairs, provided the leading directors and stockholders would become responsible for the sum by signing the necessary papers. It is understood that none of them, except Thomas M. Patterson, would agree to this. It was then decided to close the institution.

The following statement was taken from the books of the American National Bank this morning: Resources—Cash and exchange, $70,300; bills receivable, $1,078,000; stock and securities, $265,435; real estate, $136,590; excess on circulation, $22,000; total, $1,672,325. Liabilities—Individual deposits, $530,712; demand deposits, $28,699; time deposits, $36,297; due other banks, $97,024; borrowed money, $142,500; total, $165,231.

A comparison of this statement with that published in March shows that the bank deposits and reserve declined very rapidly. Over $700,000 were withdrawn on Monday and Tuesday of this week, and, there being only $70,000 left, the directors decided that the best thing to do was to close the bank. Besides the resources given above, are notes for $500,000 set aside for the reading men of Denver, including P. Ernest, William and Morits Barth, Mitchell Benedict, George W. Ballantine and T. J. O'Donnell. In consequence

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

NEW YORK, April 22.—Two large ocean steamships, the Mobile and the Glendichy, which have arrived in New York from London and Glasgow, respectively, report seeing an immense field of ice just south of the southern part of the Banks, nearly in the southern part of the Banks, nearly in the southern part of the Williams of Williams and Stamphing on ern course of European steamships, on Friday last. The danger to navigation from this enormous quantity of ice would be considerable, if settled foggy weather prevailed.

The Mobile carried thirty-four passengers and a large amount of freight from London, and had an uneventful journey until the morning of April 18.

"We were then following the regular summer course," said the captain last night, "and were about in long. 50 and lat. 43 deg. 20 min. It was about 3 o'clock in the morning when we began to pass floating ice, but it was not until 9 o'clock that we sighted the field. We were steaming west by south, but when we sighted the ice I ordered the course changed to west. By this means we passed to the north of all the ice, except a few detached bergs. For fully twelve miles to the southward, or as far as we could see, at any rate, the field of ice extended. Far away was formed a soild mass, towering in some places as high, I should think, as 200 feet and over. Near by us were many smaller bergs, through which we were obliged to make our way with great caution. Some of the ice mountains were 100 feet high, and none was less than twenty feet in height.

The influence of the ice on the temperature of the air was very marked. At 4 a.m. the thermometer registered 50 deg., and at noon only 22 deg. We had to turn on steam throughout the ship.

At 4 a.m. the thermometer registered 50 deg., and at noon only 22 deg. We had to turn on steam throughout the ship, as it was too cold for the passengers to be on deck. All the morning we steamed through the ice, having to change our course no less than five times in order to avoid a collision with one of the big fellows. We passed so near to several of them that we could have tossed a biscuit onto them. The field extended, I should think, about fifty miles east and west. If it continues to melt there will be little of it left in ten days."

John Scott, chief officer of the Glendichy, said: "We fell in with icebergs about 6 a.m. April 7. We passed about thirty-six bergs of various sizes when we were in lat. 43 deg. 20 min. and long. 49 deg. 20 min. At 6 o'clock we came within two miles of one berg which was shaped much like a gigantic ship, 300 or 400 feet long and 40 feet broad, and another that was about 150 feet high. We were moving at the rate of about twelve knots an hour, but we did not have to change our course at any time. Our thermometer fell from 40 deg. to 30 deg., and the wind was bitter cold. The ice extended over an area of about seventy miles east and west, and was melting very rapidly. It took us about six hours to get

New York Capitalist Engaged in Picking Up This Class of Securi-ties in San Francisco and Other Parts of the State.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—The Chronicle this morning says that there is local corroborative evidence of the ccuracy of the Chronicle's Washington intimations that the United States Su preme Court will uphold the constitu-tionality of the Wright irrigation act and make the bonds good as gold. Such a decision would give to the securities a value, which, under Judge Ross's ad-verse ruling, they have been denied. It is significant that for the last week or ten days there has been in Cal-ifornia a capitalist from New York State who is trying to buy up such of these bonds as he can find and is able to purchase at a figure which will in-sure him a handsome profit. The in-vestor has kept his personality to him-self. He has traveled to and fro beself. He has traveled to and fro be-tween this city and Modesto and Stan-islaus county, but, while dealing with owners of bonds or negotiating with brokers, he has done so through a rep-resentative—a contractor well known in Fresno and San Francisco. Thus far he is said to have picked up bonds that cost him $103,000, but he is eager for more, and this eagerness is all the more notable since he is believed to be in a more, and this eagerness is all the more in table since he is believed to be in a position to make a good guess as to what the decision of the Supreme Court will be on the irrigation act.

The name of the eastern speculator is withheld by those who have had private dealings with him. but he is believed to be William A. Thompson, a resident of Troy, N. Y., who arrived here a week ago. He is now out of town, but is thought to have gone to the interior in search of more bonds at low rates. These bonds have had no sale since July 22, 1895, when Judge Ross of the United States District Court, sitting at Los Angeles, declared the Wright act unconstitutional. The owners, however, or the financiers who picked up the securities at the moment of the first fight, have clung to them, believing in their ultimate value.

FLASHES FROM THE WIRES.

The Mason & Davis Co. of Chicago, manufacturers of stoves and ranges, failed yesterday and made John J. Whirl assignee. The assets are $73.000; labilities, $107.000.

A Guthrie, O. T., dispatch says that a cloudburst in Besver county caused the streams to rise suddenly and overflow their banks, doing an immense amount of damage.

A Washington dispatch says that Gen. N. L. Jefferies, well known to public men as counsel for the Alaska Fur Seal Company, which long controlled the Bering Sea seal business, died suddenly yesterday.

An Albapy (N. Y.) dispatch says the Assembly has passed the Greater New York Bill over the vetoes of the Mayors of New York and Brocklyn. The Senate had previously passed the bill over the vetoes, and it now goes before the Governor for his approval or veto.

A Kansas City dispatch says that the newly-goes before the Governor for his approval or veto.

A Kansas City dispatch says that the newly-installed Mayor, James N. Jones, set a precedent that caused consternation among the saloon element when he issued the following order: "Notice is hereby given that from and after this date beer must not be delivered on Sunday to any saloon within the corporate limits of the city."

Sir Mackenzie Bowell made the official statement in the Canadian Senate yesterday that prorogation would take place tonight, that dissolution would take place tonight, that dissolution would take place Longht, that dissolution would take place June 16 and the general elections June 23. The writs are made returnable on the 18th of July, and a new Parliament will meet on July 18. Commissioner Eva Booth of the Salvation Army has arrived at St. Louis from Chicago. About sixty officers of the Midland division of the army were at the Union station and gave the commissioner Booth directed a meeding in Grand Music Hall. Exposition building. She was given a rousing reception. In her address she spoke of her mission in America and the result of the defection of Ballington Booth. She stated that out of 2000 officers in the United States, but thirty-five had left the ranks of the Salvation Army.

PICKLED TEA A DELICACY. Curious Method of Preserving the (London Times:) The latest issue of the Kew Bulletin contains two interest-ing reports on the cultivation and preparation of the so-called pickled, or leppett, tea of Burman, one from the northern Shan states, the other from the Upper Chindwin. Most of the pickled tea consumed by the Burmese is grown in Yaung Baing, in the north-ern Shan States, the whole State being given up to the industry. The plant yielding this tea has now been identifled as the ordinary Assam tea plant, yielding this tea has now been identified as the ordinary Assam tea plant. Two corps are secured each year, only the young and tender leaves being taken. These, while still green, are thoroughly boiled in large, narrownecked pots made for the purpose, and are then poured into square pits dug in the ground about six feet deep, the sides and bottom being lined with walls of plantain leaves, which prevent contact with the earth.

The pit being filled with boiled tea and the juice from the pots, plantain leaves are placed on top and earth piled above these, stones and other heavy weights being placed on top. The pits are opened after some months, when the trading season begins and the tea is sold to traders, who come with their caravans of bullocks to carry it to the Mandalay market in long baskets, so packed that fermentation is prevented.

The tea is sold in a dry state, and is prepared by boiling in an earthen kettle, sait being added when it is drank. In lower Burmah, however, it is largely consumed in the solid form, the leaves being soaked in oil, a little garlic or dried fish being added, and in this form it is regarded as a great dainty. At all family festivals it plays an important it is regarded as a great dainty. At all family festivals it plays an important it, and no ceremony is complete without it.

In the Upper Chindwin there is a trade in the seed as well as in the leaf. The leaves when picked are thrown into an iron cauldron full of boiling water, where they remain until they assume a yellow color, when they are rolled by hand on mats and are then ready for the traders, who carry them away in bamboo crates. If the tea is to be kept it is either burded in the sun and carried away by traders in mat-lined boats to a convenient landing place, when it is carried on coolies' backs to Manipur and Assam, where it has an excellent reputation for its germinating properties.

An experiment is now being made in sending the seed by Rangoon and Calcooles' backs to Manipur and Assam, where it has an excellent reputation for its germinating properties.

An experiment is now being made in sending the seed by Rangoon and Calcutta to Assam. Mr. Bruce, the author of the Upper Chindwin report, states that the gardens he saw in the region were wonderfully healthy, considering the little care taken of them. He thinks the tea planting on European methods would be a great success if the labor difficulty could be successfully dealt with. Having labor, the planter need only search for red earth areas, which are numerous all over the Upper Chindwin. The plants become large enough to give a crop in three years if the garden is kept free from jungle. Seed is borne in eight years and in fifteen years the trees are in full bearing, their normal existence being forty to fifty years. The profits on the trade seem to be enormous. Tea bought at the gardens at from 15 to 25 rupees for 360 pounds is sold in Mandalay at from 60 to 140 rupees.

Michigan Rivers Out of Bounds.

MENOMINEE (Mich.,) April 22.—The Menominee and Fence rivers are out of their banks, and the floods are causing heavy losses to logging interests. The logging camp of Isaac Monroe, on Fence River, has been flooded, caused by a log jam, and the employés barely escaped. The camp, with equipment and provisions, was swept away.
Many farmers in the Menominee Valley have been driven from home, and have suffered great loss in stock and crops. One hundred men are guarding the log booms at various points on the river The backwater in this city has driven sewage into the city water mains, and fifty cases of typhold fever have resulted. The water is still rising, and the losses will continue to be heavy. Michigan Rivers Out of Bounds.

Cleveland's Lumber Shovers.

CLEVELAND, April 22.—All extra police in the city were massed at noon today at the Central Police Station in readiness for the expected trouble on the lumber docks between union and non-union lumbershovers. Each officer was provided with a club. On the docks a big crowd of union and non-union men were gathered, awaiting the arrival of the first vessel of the lumber fleet.

The police scattered the crowd and five men were arrested, including the leaders of both sides. About twenty men were cut and bruised, seven being counted lying insensible on the ground just as the fight terminated with the arrival of the police. None of the wounds inflicted are dangerous. Apparently all the non-union men were armed. Another effort will be made to unload the vessel tomorrow. Cleveland's Lumber Shovers.

(Cleveland Recorder:) The healthfulness of Lynton, a summer resort in Devon, Eng., is advertised by this story: Recently a visitor began to talk to an old man in Lynton, and asked him his age, whereupon he said: "I'm just over 70."

"Well." said the visitor, "you look as if you had a good many years to live yet. At what age did your father die?"

"Father dead," said the man, looking surprised. "Father isn't dead; he's up stairs putting grandfather to bed."

in the volume of autobiography which he has just published, tells the unique story of how, as master of the Birmingham grammar school, he was caned by one of the boys.

The class was engaged on Cicero, Some disorder occurred near the master's chair, and, seizing the cane, he "gave a nasty cut upon the too-tempting back of one youth who seemed to be the offender." "If you please, sir," said the boy, squirming, 'I did nothing It was Scudamore that kicked me in the stomach, underneath the desk."

The statement was true. Scudamore had demanded from his neighbor, quite illegitimately, the explanation of an obscure passage, and, not being attended to, had taken this much too emphatic means of enforcing attention. Having called the class up, Arnold said to the doubly wronged boy, who was still rubbing the place: "It is I who am most to blame, for having dealt you an undeserved blow. Take that cane and give it back to me as hard as you got it." "No, sir," the lad answered, "I can't do that." The whole great, schoolroom was now listeneing, masters and all. Arnold insisted, "Jones, you must obey me; and if you disobey, I am sorry to say I shall make you write out that page of Cicero three times, staying in to do it."

Whether it was desperation at this dreadful alternative, or the sparkling eyes of his classfellows, evidently longing to have the good luck themselves of "licking" a master, that suddenly inspired Jones, I know not. What I do know is that he reached forth his hand, took the cane, and dealt me no sham stroke, but the severest and most telling cut over my shoulders. I had no idea that the ridiculous instrument could sting, as it did, like a scorpion. "Rubbing the place" in my own turn I managed to thank Jones for his obliging compilance, and then said to him: "Break that detestable weapon across your knee and throw it out of the window. Never again will we have anything to do with such methods here."

Sir Edwin Arnold adds that corporal punishment is, in his view, a cowardly

"Stevens was championing some bill in Congress which aroused the opposition of the combined southern members. He made a brilliant speech in favor of it, and equally brilliant speeches were made on the other side, and the upshot of it was that Stevens was outvoted after a bitter and passionate partisan debate.

THEY ARE FOR MIKINLEY

PENNSYLVANIA BUSINESS MEN FAVOR HIS NOMINATION.

Solid for Ample Protection and Sound Money—Results of a Care-ful Canvass by the New York Tribune—Out of 723 Votes Me-Kinley Gets 386.

(New York Tribune, April 15:) Penn-sylvania favors McKinley. The over-whelming majority of the Republicans of the State are for his nomination at St. Louis.

This is said as the result of an elaborate canvass which the Tribun: has made of the entire State. Weeks have been spent in the work. It has been carefully conducted, and with absolute fairness to all the candidates.

The expressions of contracts.

fairness to all the candidates.

The expressions of opinion that have been obtained are from representative men in every section. Manufacturers, bankers, farmers, merchants, machinists, railroad officials, politicians, officials dietals, in brief, men identified with almost every branch of industry and professional labor have given their preferences.

in brief, men identified with almost every branch of industry and professional labor have given their preferences.

In every city and important town of the State lists of the leading citizens were secured. To each of these was addressed a letter of inquiry as to his first and second choice for Presidential candidates. The replies are given herewith; they speak for themselves. It is only necessary to recapitulate briefly the returns.

McKinley leads easily. Of the 72 Republicans who have made public expressions of their views, no fewer than 366 declare him to be their first choice—that is to say, he has a trifle over 50 per cent. of the entire State as represented by the interviews given below. In addition to this, he is the second choice of 178 others.

Senator Quay, who poses as Pennsylvania's "favorite son," is 199 behind McKinley for first choice, and 121 behind him in the matter of second choice. Mr. Quay has 167 supporters for first choice, and with 57 others he is second choice. It must be said that a large part of Senator Quay's adherents are devotedly attached to him, but with a considerable portion support of him is, as some of them express it, "a marter of State pride."

Speaker Reed is third in strength, with 91 Pennsylvanians he is first in favor, but he leads the list as second choice, no fewer than 238 votes being recorded in his favor—60 more than are for McKinley.

President Harrison is fourth. He is the first choice of 4 and the second choice of 12 and the second choice of 19.

Gov. Morton is the first choice of 12 and the second choice of 4 and the second choice of 7 and the second choice of 19.

Senator Cameron is the first choice of 4 and the second choice of 19.

The name, with, in most cases, the business and firm of every man who spipers in this test vote, is given. The vote in every instance is over the voter's signature, so that every reader has the satisfaction, of knowing that he is examining an expression of Pennsylvania Republican sentiment of the most trustworthy character. MRS. CLEVELAND AT HOME. The Popularity of the President's Wife as Great as Ever.

Mrs. Cleveland's frequent social ap-Mrs. Cleveland's frequent social appearances lately have shown very clearly that the strong fascination which her presence always exerted among women has not lessened the veriest jot. She is the most interesting woman in the country today, particularly in the fact that people never tire of looking at her. No one was ever yet heard to say that he had been able to watch her quite as long as he would have liked. A great many people now know her intimately, and are able to see her frequently, but for the great majority, to whom this intimacy is denied, the only opportunities come with the important functions in the White House, says the Philadelphia Times.

come with the important functions in the White House, says the Philadelphia Times.

At one of Mrs. Cleveland's teas recently, perhaps 1000 women had the pleasure of shaking hands with her and at the same time enjoyed a little chat. It would have been hard to find any woman in all this number who, after this enjoyment, did not find some point from which she could stand and feast her eyes again on her hostess. Every detail of her appearance, every ornament she wore and every word she said were discussed and admired.

"Don't you think she is handsomer than ever?" said one.

"I wish I could wear my hair as simply arranged as Mrs. Cleveland," said another, while another chimes in with: "She seems to fascinate me: I can't take my eyes from her."

So it went—the same admiring comments and the same pleasure taken in even looking at her, as everybody remembers so vividly the first year of her residence in the White House.

In evening dress Mrs. Cleveland is the handsomest woman today in Washington. She has a beautiful neck and well-rounded shoulders, and, with the sparkle of her jewels, makes a pleture of a White-House mistress which is simply regal. Her smile is contagious, for her manners are always agreeably gracious.

Ruth and Esther and Baby Marian for her manners are always agreeably gracious.

Ruth and Esther and Baby Marian are miniatures of their mother. The two elder girls love to get a glimpse of the grand daylight doings in their home, and to do it have to peep through the bannisters of the big stairway, which is their tower of observation. They talk German with their Fraulein with the greatest ease.

Mrs. Cleveland is seen on the streets occasionally, walking in the mornings or driving around among the shops. She is the most devoted of mothers, and is never away from the children at night. This has done away with the little shopping jaunts to New York, which used to give her so much pleasure during her first residence in Washington.

A NOVEL LABOR UNION.

The frequent causeless strikes that have taken place in San Francisco dur- year. ing the past few years have led a number of sensible workingmen in that city to organize themselves into a union for protection, not against employers, but against the existing labor organizations eleven days of April, for example, prothemselves, which of late have been rapidly developed into a species of "tyranny that is far worse than the "tyranny of capital," of which we hear so much from labor leaders and walking

The organization referred to is really men who have been telling fairy tales a union of non-union workingmen, and about imaginary revenues for so many The organization referred to is really appears to be something after the style weary days. At present it is confined to furniture workers. but the members expect to extend its scope so that it will embrace all trades extend over the whole country. The new union is to be called "The Independent Order of Free Mechanics. The Chronicle gives the following particulars in regard to the organization:

"The organization originated in the Parrott building the day the union men declared the strike there. Bruschke was the originator. A rough draft of an agreement to stand by each other in case of trouble was circulated among the men in his employ in that building. It was signed by about fifty. From this grew the idea of a permanent organization that should embrace all trades. A meeting was called for the nent organization that should embrace all trades. A meeting was called for the 8th inst., at the furniture factory, and was attended by over one hundred of the employees of that institution. It was then that the officers and directors were chosen and the membership was increased during the next few days to nearly one hundred and fifty, so that it embraced about all the laborers in the factory. To the board of directors was left the task of preparing a constitution and bylaws. The board decided that it would be better to incorporate so as to give the organization a tangible form, and the articles were prepared. They set forth that the main object of the union's formation is to enable mechanics to continue their occupations without a disturbance and object of the union's formation is to enable mechanics to continue their occupations without a disturbance and without dues or assessments. No means of revenue whatever is provided for in the articles, and it any money is needed it will have to be raised by subscription. The present organisation can meet free of charge at the factory, where its members are

There is a strong probability that Congress will adjourn for this session at an early date, perhaps next month, as has been proposed. Practically nothing has as yet been done in the matter of the proposed Nicaraguan canal. The time remaining is too short for the adequate consideration of that important question, and it now seems probable that no decisive action will be taken at the present session. It would be interesting to know to what extent Huntington is responsible for Congressional inaction in this mat ter. He has fastened himself upon the national legislature with a grip like that of the Old-Man-of-the-Sea, and eems to have the power to secure whatever legislation he desires, and to pre vent legislation which is objectionable

As is well known. Huntington stren lously objects to the construction of the Nicaragua Canal. That great water way, when constructed, will prove powerful competitor of the transcon inental railroads for freight traffic Huntington would spend money by the so doing he could prevent the building 'influence" in that direction to keep the Nicaragua Canal Bill pigeon-holed in ended to allow action upon it? Uncle Collis has the wherewithal and the inorego such an opportunity?

The news from New Orleans is encouraging to all friends of good municipal government. As reported in the telegraph columns of The Times yesterday, the Citizens' League of that city after one of the bitterest and most stub bornly contested municipal contests in the history of the United States, and in spite of the strongest ring organiza tion that has existed in this country ment by their employees being called for many years, has succeeded in wip-ing the boodlers of the face of the earth. This shows what decent citizens may accomplish when they are true to their city and to each other. The day is evidently dawning when party politics in municipal aflairs will be a thing of the past. New York has spoken Chicago is preparing to speak, and the other large cities will fall into line. It will be a happy day for the United States when decent men in the large cities give up fighting among themselves and control the government of those cities as they control their own

Some of the English papers are again assuming a decidedly hostile tone toward the United States, and are hinting at terrible things that may happen in case the report of the Venezuelan Commission is adverse to the claims of Great Britain. Their apprehensions are not wholly unfounded. The results, in such a case, might be extremely diss greeable to John Bull. But he would have to take his medicine.

Coinage of Silver.

Colonge of Silver.

(Chicago Times-Herald:) The political enemies of Maj. McKinley reckoned without the complete record of his speeches on the currency question when they cited against him a solitary speech apparently but not actually in favor of apparently but not actually in favor of the two sandards.

A man is never to be judged by what he said on a single circumscribed occasion on a subject frequently disdiscussed, nor by a single speech taken exclusively in connection with past conditions of the subject matter. Not a word-can be found in Maj. McKinley's utterances in favor of sending the United States to a silver currency basis—not one.

United States to a silver currency basis—not one.

The real scope of the baleful effects of unlimited coinage of silver was not perceived until 1892. Speaking that year, September 23, at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, on "The Issues of the Time," Maj. McKinley said:

"My fellow-citizens, there is one thing which this country cannot afford to trifie with, and that is its currency, its measure of value, the money which passes among the people in return for their labor and the products of their toil or of their land. There is no contrivance so successful in cheating labor and the poor people of the country as unstable, worthless and easily counterfeited currency.

as unstable, worthless and value of terfeited currency.

On the proposal that we should go back to State banks, Maj. McKinley said: "It is influiely more harmful than the irredeemable greenback in unlimited volume." He added: "It would be a thousand times more hurtful, more destructive to business and trade than the free and unlimited coinage of silver, bad as that would be."

In the same speech, speaking of the age of silver, bad as that would be."
In the same speech, speaking of the advocates of payment of the greenbacks in bonds, Maj, McKinley sald: "Routed from that position by the sober sense of the country, they become the advocates of the free and unlimited coinage of a dollar worth less than 100 cents."
Yet there are journalists and politicians who profess to think that Maj, McKinley never squarely declared himself in favor of the gold standard and against unlimited coinage of silver!

McKinley and the A.P.A. McKinley and the A.P.A.

(Fresno Republican:) The more the matter is considered, the more unbelievable it appears that the A.P.A. is inlimical to the candidacy of William McKinley. Let the reader look at the facts for himself, at the same time remembering that the American Protective Association, as its name indicates, is presumed to stand for a distinctively American spirit in the politics of the nation.

American spirit in the politics of the nation.

When civil war was in the land, and the existence of the nation was endangered. William McKinley, then hardly more than a boy, shouldered a musket, and for four years he carried it in his country's behalf. Certainly the A.P.A. will not object to that type of patriotism or of Americanism.

Through all his mature life he has been a member of the Mcthodist Episcopal church, and his religious affiliation are with that body. Nobedy believes that the A.P.A. would object to him on this account.

his interests in this campaign are Protestant Episcopals. The men of this church owe no fealty to a foreign potentate, and nobody can object to his managers on that account.

As for the cock-and-bull story that an A.P.A. committee called on Mr. McKinley and he refused to receive it, in the first place it is denied, and in the second place, if it were not, nobody would for a moment believe that that organization would gauge a man's Presidential fitness by the question whether or not he chanced to receive a committee. The A.P.A. would have to be narrower than its name were it to do such a thing.

The story of the hostility of the organization to Mr. McKinley has run a lively course over the wires. It has been told and readed and ganization to Mr. McKinley has run a lively course over the wires. It has been told and retold, denied and redenied, until one is justified in judging of its truth by such extraneous evidence as is obtainable. So doing, we are firmly convinced that the story is false. The A.P.A. cannot be inimical to his candidacy—

First—Because he is a citizen of the United States and owes allegiance to no foreign potentate:

Inited States and owes allegiance to no oreign potentate; Second—Because his name, almost more than that of any other individual, is synonymous with the protection of American labor and industries, and Third—Because he has proved his love of country by risking his life for it. No American organization of any sort will object to that sort of a record.

Marines or Sea Soldiers.
U. S. S. PHILADELPHIA, Redondo Beach April 19, 1898.—(To the Editor of The Times.) In the notices which have appeared in the mewspapers from time to time in relation to the "Philadelphia Battalion," the term "marines" is used, and quite naturally so, because of the generally accepted notion that all who sail the seas being mariners, the term "marines" would apply. As a matter of fact, our battalion is a "blue jacket," or seaman battalion in the main, there being one company of marines, the smallest company of the five, attached to the battalion. The term marines in the navy applies to, the United States Marine Corps only, a detail from which is made to ships. In the case of the Philadelphia the marine guard numbers forty men, out of a total crew of 350. Will you kindly bardon this gratuitous offer of information, which is extended with the idea of correcting a generally accepted public error, and in order that the simple sailor man when he goes for a soldier on land may be known by his proper name.

Should Gen. Luis E. Torres be selected by President Diaz as his next etary of War, Californians will indorse the choice as one of the wisest that could be made. While Governor of Sonora and Lower California he gave an excellent account of himself in Indian warfare, and his many genial qualities, added to his military prowess and recognized statesmanship, recom-mend him for advancement.

A striking illustration of longevity was that afforded in the parade yesterday by an aged Mexican, over whose ad the suns of 115 years have shone Not more feeble than most men of 70, his appearance in the procession at all was a glowing testimonial to the salubrity of California's climate. When it is said that last year he rode horse-back with the caballeros, the marvelous vigor of the old man is still more forcibly indicated.

The Santa Fé Company has a special officer at the San Bernardino Depot who is making a record for himself in hunting for hobos. On one occasion he arrested an eastern tourist as he stepped off the road, at another time he took in an employe of the company at work in the yard. Monday evening, however, he "pulled" one of the bestknown men in San Bernardino, as a hobo. Such vigilance on the part of an employé should bring its appropriate reward-whatever that may be.

(New York Weekly:) George. Eh? You got engaged last night? Gus, my old, my dear friend, tell me how you did it. Gus. Really, I hardly know myself. Couldn't help it. Just like falling downstairs. I was on the edge of a proposal, she gave me a push, and there I was engaged. "Well I haven't had any such experience. Every time I try to start my knees knock together, and my teeth chatter, and my tongue cleaves to the roof of my mouth. Eve tried a dozen times to pop the question to Miss De Pink, and slumped every time." "And did she let you slump?" "Yes." "You are courting the wrong girl."

MILEAGE TICKETS.

Subject of Debate by Western Managers and Agents.

Chicago Yesterday.

Partial Agreement Reached at umors Regarding Disappearance of Baltimore and Ohio Securities. Statement by Chairman of the Reorganization Committee.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)
CHICAGO, April 22.—The general managers and passenger agents of the Western roads were in session again today on the question of mileage tickets, and the matter is not yet settled con-clusively. It has, however, been agreed that, beginning May 1, 1000-mile tickets shall be of the punch description, signa-ture the same as for the 2000-mile Mileage tickets good in the territory west of the Missouri are not to be honored east of the river, except in specific cases, and tickets sold east of the river may not be used west of it. Auditors of the various lines are to make weekly reports to the chairman of the mileage bureau, furnishing a complete record of all 2000-mile tickets sold, and forwarding a copy of the signatures of all warding a copy of the signatures of all purchasers and their descriptions. All purenasers and their descriptions. All refunds are to be made through the chairman or his authorized representative. The chairman may make payments at his Chicago office, or through agents at St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Omaha, Council Bluffs, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Sloux City, and at additional points if destrable.

THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO. NEW YORK, April 22.—Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, chairman of the Reorgani-zation Committee of the Baltimore and Fitzgerald, chairman of the Reorganization Committee of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, says regarding the rumors current in the street that a large amount of securities of the Baltimore and Ohio have disappeared and that no account has been given therefor:

"I do not believe that the public understands the situation as to the Baltimore and Ohio and the efforts that are being made to readjust its affairs. Previous to the receivership, the company had been making negotiations to secure a large sum of money to retire its floating debt and acquire the necessary new capital.

"A presentation of the accounts of the company was made by Maj. Shaw, who had for a long time been chairman of the Finance Committee. The report in no way disclosed such a condition as is now indicated by the report from Baltimore. A thorough examination of all the affairs of the company from the beginning of Mr. Mayor's administration in 1888 to the last possible date is now being conducted by Stephen Little. When completed, the report will be presented to the security holders. Thus far nothing has been disclosed that would suggest a loss or improper use of any securities. As soon as the examination into the physical and financial condition of the property is completed, a plan will be formulated for treatment in the problems that will be presented by these reports.

"Meantime, the arrangements made by the receivers to have the present rolling stock put in effective condition and to supply additional rolling stock, which is greatly needed by the company, will, it is believed, when obtained, add largely to the net earnings. The Reorganization Committee believes that the earnings of the property can be placed on a sound financial basis."

Will Prove His Fairness. Alex McBean of Oakland explains the circumstances attendant on the foreclosure of the mortgage on the Raynor ranch near San Bernardino in such a manner as to show a fair disposition manner as to show a fair disposition on his part. He says the property has cost him altogether about $30,000, loans on mortgage with accrued interest and payment of a second mortgage having absorbed the money. An attempt was being made to sell the land for $50,000 with which to repay this indebtedness and leave a balance of $20,000 for Mr. Raynor. Ascertaining, he says, that his interest was being ignored, he bought up a $2300 judgment against Raynor and pressed the claim to settlement. Having acquired full title to the ranch, he says he will demonstrate his fairness by selling it for $50,000 and on receipt of the money will pay Raynor $20,000, reserving to offset his personal claim, with interest, and a fair allowance for expenses only $30,000.

Approved the Pay Roll.

At the City Hall yesterday the meeting of the Fire Commission at which the monthly payroll was approved, was the only business of any sort transacted. The offices in the building were closed in the afternoon, and will be closed every afternoon during the remainder of the week.

Santa Barbara Band. The Times was serenaded last even-ing by the Santa Barbara Military Band in a highly acceptable manner. The leader, Capt. H. E. Green, said this The leader, Capt. H. E. Green, said this courtesy was extended in recognition of the services rendered by The Times to Santa Barbara during the recent flower festival, as well as at other times and especially in appreciative remembrance of Col. Otis, the editor, a former resident of the Channel City. The organization is one of which Santa Barbara may well be proud, and is composed of trained musicians. The performance last evening was creditable, the playing of "Coronation March" being especially admired. A medley of old-time airs was applauded by the bystanders, while a concert selection, also given, was rendered with taste and excellent effect. The band will participate in the fiesta events yet to come.

How to see Mount Lowe. Like other mountain resorts, the best views are to be had during the evenings and mornings, and the worst in the middle of the day, as that is the time, if ever, the mists of the valley rise and obscure the charming landscape. Besides, for health and pleasure there is no place on the Pacific Coast where a long stay can be enjoyed so much, or where so fine accommodations can be obtained at moderate rates. But visitors whose time is limited can see and enjoy more in one night at Echo Mountain House than in one month at ordinary places. The Great Telescope, the World's Fair Premium Searchlight, the lighted cities below, resembling at night a "lake of diamonds," the magnificent sunsets and sunrises, the wonderful morning and evening echoes, together with a ride over the most scenic mountain rallway in the world, afford more lasting pleasure than all else on the Pacific Coast combined. Elegant hotels, superior table, courteous attendance. Numerous suites of rooms with bath. Open wood and gas fire in every room. Telegraph, telephone, express office, postoffice with money order department. Six trains each way daily. 25-cent hotel coupons issued for Alpine Tavern or Echo Mountain to the valley and return, while guests at the hotels. Visitors leaving Los Angeles in the morning car can lunch at Alpine Tavern, 5000 feet above sea level, and take in the grandest, horseback ride on the globe to the higher summits, and view the thousands of snowpeaks, with range of four hundred miles in diameter, returning in time for afternoon trains to the valley.

THE WILDES DISMISSED.

They Were Justified in Mutilating

Several weeks ago T. W. Wilde and J. S. Wilde, two brothers, were ar-rested for mutilating a beast named Wheeler, who had criminally assaulted the little son of the latter. The men were arraigned before Recorder Ros-siter, who was sitting during Justice Morrison's absence. The examination has been continued several times, on account of the complaining witness account of the compianing, witness having disappeared. Yesterday Deputy District Attorney James appeared before Recorder Rossiter and moved to dismiss the case.

In ruling upon the motion, Recorder Rossiter said:

Rossiter said:
"The motion of the District Attorney for dismissal is before the court. Upon statements and representations made of the facts in this case to the court, it appearing that a brutal and gross outof the facts in this case to the court, it appearing that a brutal and gross outrage has been perpetrated upon the son of one of the defendants in that the crime against nature has been committed upon him by the complaining witness, and that the father in a sudden rage and passion has partially emasculated the perpetrator of the outrage and was prevented from effectually accompilshing his purpose by the efforts of his co-defendant, I feel that, sitting as a committing magistrate, I have no right to send such a case to an American jury to be tried at the expense of the county.

"Feeling that I have a right to anticipate the verdict that said jury or any jury, would find in this case, I entertain this motion at this time. I have less heattency in entertaining this motion at this time, for he reason that my ruling is not as a matter of law a final determination of the matter; and therefore, if my judgment herein deemed erroneous or unwise, the defendants or either of them may be brought before another committing magistrate for examination, or the matter may be submitted to the grand jury when in session.

nt is, nowever, my fixed and unchanging opinion that, unfortunate as it must ever be deemed, human frailty is such that, in paroxysms of rage or grief, acts in themselves unlawful, are sometimes resorted to. In this case the rule I follow can strike terror to no decent man, except perhaps as an abstract legal proposition. Emotions do not enter largely into questions of law, but I believe our juries do, and rightly enough, consider such questions; and I further believe that in this county no jury could ever be empaneled that would bring in a verdict of guilty in a case of this kind. The facts are so revolting that one may well blush for human deprayity.

"It is ordered and adjudged that the defendants, and each of them, be discharged; that this action be dismissed and that the bondsmen herein be relieved from liability."

"UNCLE BILLY" DEAD. Death of the Hon. William Williams of Indiana.

Death of the Hon. William Williams of Indiann.

Dr. J. H. Davisson, president of the California State Board of Health, received a dispatch yesterday announcing the death of his wife's father, Hon. William Williams, at Warsaw, Ind., which occurred at noon yesterday. Mr. Williams was a warhorse of the Republican party, known from New York to California, and was called familiarly by his political associates by the cognomen of "Uncle Billy." For the most of the time during the last ten years he has resided in Los Angeles with his son-in-law, but has been out of health and went back to his former home in the hope of relief.

At the time of his death Mr. Williams was nearly 75 years of age. He was born in Carlisle, Pa., and went to Indiana when a boy of 15 to grow up with the State. Among the ploneers he was always regarded with affection, and was repeatedly honored by election to public office in Indiana. For eight years he was in Congress as a representative-at-large from that State. Appointed by President Arthur Minister to Paraguay and Uruguay, Mr. Williams held that position with credit four years, coming to California soon after his return to the United States. He stumped this State in both Harrison campaigns, and was known throughout the country as a campaign orator of remarkable ability and of unswerving devotion to party principles. An advocate of protection to American industries, he was among the foremost defenders of the tariff in the land. He had been in public life since 1852, and made his reputation as a stump-speaker in a series of joint debates which he participated in with his Democratic opponent when running as a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor of Indiana.

Mr. Williams was an active business man all his life. He was a director of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Raliroad Company, and at various times was engaged in banking and mercantile business. His wife died under most painful circumstances in this city when he was absent in South America. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. E. P. Thompson,

BOTTS & PHELPS,

SECOND DAY OF LA FIESTA.

Brilliant sunshine, clear skies, and a crisp, bracing breeze were summoned yesterday by that loyal servant of La Reins de la Fiesta, the Lord Chief Clerk of the Weather, in order that her capital city might be at its fairest when the reign of merriment fairly commenced with the grand pageant which typified the wealth and resources of the Land of Sunshine. The dash of rain during the night had only served to freshen and clear the air, and put every one in the humor for the sports of the day, and the morning dawned bright and clear, showing blue skies and unharmed decorations.

At an early hour the city was astir, and by noon the streets were overflowing with people. Every passing car was loaded to the eyelids with pleasuresekers hurrying to and fro. Vehicles of every description, from the stylish tally-ho and mall-phaeton, to the humble spring-wagon, covered with country dust, disputed street room with bustling equestrians, and the sidewalks were simply a heaving, jostling mass of humanity, flowing like a tide toward the tribunes.

Every one was good-humored, and all the pushing and struggling for room was done without any display of bad temper. Even the eldritch screech of the "devileens" failed to rasp nerves usually sensitive to such discordant squawking, for the general jollity of the time put even the irritable members of the human race in tune with all the world.

of the human race in tune with all the world.

At 1 p.m. the waiting crowds were rewarded by an occasional glimpse of gay uniforms, or the glitter of burnished metal and delicate blossoms, as the different divisions of the grand parade began to form. Squads of horsemen galloped down the streets with jingling accourtements and waving plumes; and battations of infantry marched with measured tread to their appointed places. Occasionally a glittering float would be seen in the distance, moving slowly toward the rendezvous, or a company of painted Indians or gaudily-lad Chinese would cause a rush of the rowd in the direction of this new atraction. The air was full of maftial nusic, for all the bands from far and lear had assembled to do honor to the oright, brief reign of the fair Queen of La Flesta.

AN ASSYRIAN THRONE.

The high, square canopy was Assyrian in shape, the columns of white and gold, and the canopy itself of scarlet fringed with gold. The long staircase leading to the throne was covered with yellow cloth, and carpeted with scarlet. Huge fiests banners floated from tall standards planted at regular intervals down each side of the stair, and tropical plants reared their broad leaves from every step, forming a double balustrade of the heavy foliage. Graceful sprays of ivy relieved the whiteness of the background to the throne, and twined about the pillars and flagstaffs, and flowers bloomed in every nook. AN ASSYRIAN THRONE.

HER MAJESTY'S ARRIVAL.

Mid Gleeful Cheers and Trumpets' Blare Arrived the Queen and Her Ladies Fair.

At 1:45 p.m. a flourish of trumpets announced the approach of the Queen. There was a rapid rush of people and a thunder of applause and the royal carriage dashed into the Queens kighway, followed by four other carriages containing the street mailes of honor carriage dashed into the Queen's highway, followed by four other carriages containing the sixteen maids of honor.
The Queen's carriage was drawn by four superb black horses, harnessed in white satin, with long satin streamers.
The coachman and footman wore colonial liveries of white and silver and the carriage was lined with huge white bearskin rugs, making a nest of snowy fleece in which Her Gracious Majesty sat enshrined, with her two little pages onposite her, in their court garb of white and gold. The Queen wore a magnificent gown of white satin, with the collar of gold and garniture of gems. The court train was of green velvet, bordered with ermine and lined with palest yellow. Her beautiful dark head was coverd only by the jeweled crown and shaded by a parasol of snowy lace and chiffon. Two outriders, in flesta uniform, galloped on either side of the carriage, which was driven slowly past the tribunes, the Queen bowing to right and left in answer to the cheers which greeted her.

THE GOVERNOR AND HIS STAFF.
Another blare of trumpets was heard, and the signal corps galloped up and took its position in front of the grandstand, where it remained while the three carriages containing Gov. Budd and his staff drove to a position opposite the throne, where seats were reserved for the chief executive and his aides. The crowd applauded again as the Governor took his position, and bowed his acknowledgment of the cordial greeting extended to him.

Promptly on time, but a minute after 2 o'clock the head of the procession entered the inclosure of the tribunes and slowly passed between the rows of seats crowded with the enthusiastic multitude.

At the rear of the staff rode Gene Maxwell, quartermaster sergeant of Troop D, carrying the brigadier-general's banner. The beautiful silken fag flaunted in the breeze triumphantly, a shimmering banner of blue, edged with silver lace, with a solitary star in the center.

THE SEA SOLDIERS

THE SEA SOLDIERS.

A sound of martial music, of ringing strains that set one's blood leaping, announced that the marines from the U. S. flagship Philadelphia were coming. In all the long two miles of soldiers, Chinese, floats, etc., there was no feature that pleased the public better than Uncle Sam's jolly jack tars. A wave of applause followed the battation from end to end of the line of march. There were about 263 officers and men in line, all, except for the band, dressed in garments of spotiess white, with brown leggins, white cartridge belts and white saftor caps. They marched in perfect time, and when they halted in front of the City Hall and went through the setting-up exercises, it was a beautiful thing to see. The men all looked healthy and strong, their skins were brown from wind and sun, and everything about them breathed a whiff of sait sea air.

At the head of the battalion walked Lieutenant-Commander R. Lingersoill U.S.N. His staff marched close behind. Past Assistant Surgeon F. A. Resier, U.S.N., a medical officer: En-THE SEA SOLDIERS.

Col. Berry rode at the head of his regiment followed by his staff: Frank S. Prescott. major; D. R. Weller, major; Herbert D. Alfonso, captain and adjutant; Hugo R. Arndt, major and surgeon; Charles D. Ball, captain and assistant surgeon; Aifred S. Clark, captain and chaplain; A. M. Austin, first lieutenant and quartermaster; Marion M. Ogden, first lieutenant and commissary; Henry M. Sinclair, first lieutenant and inspector of rifle practice; Robert Wankowski, first lieutenant and battalion adjutant.

Then came the Daughter of the Regiment, Miss Eliteen A. Sanborn Miss Sanborn was dressed in a becoming soldier costume, bright with gold lace. She sat her white pony beautifully, and as it pranced and danced she handled the reins with consummate skill and grace.

The Seventh Regiment Military Band poured forth excellent music all along the line of march, for the twelve companies of infantry which followed close behind:

thirty-six non-commissioned officers and privates of the United States marines. Two silken banners were borne along the line of march which the searmen evidently regarded with great pride. They had been won in the Santa Barbara Flower Festival.

Lieut. H. L. Holmes, U.S.N., and Nawal Cadet R. Z. Johnstone, U.S.N., were first and second in command, respectively, of the second company of thirty-six petty officers and seamen. Then came the color guard. The Stars and Stripes and the flag of the Philadelphia were entrusted to Chief Boatswain's Mate F. Locke and three petty officers.

The third company of infantry was led by Lieut. J. H. L. Holcombe, U.S.N., with Naval Cadet N. H. Hall, N.S.N., when, in command of Capt. S. H. Finley, men, in command of Capt. S. H

CITIZEN SAILORS. Close behind marched Co. A of the naval battalion, Third Division, N.G.C., from San Diego. The citizen sailorg looked very attractive in their natty uniforms. Lieut. T. M. Shaw, N.G.C., was in command of the division. The first section was headed by Lieut. L. A. Chandler, the second by Ensign J. McNair. There were some sixty men in line.

Next came the signal corps, brave in their handsome uniforms. The twenty-one members of the corps were mounted on hahdsome horses, which they managed with admirable skill. The men looked exceedingly soldierly, in their blue uniforms, bright with orange braid, and their trim helmets, topped with orange plumes. First topped with orange plumes. whole regiment was there, the whole twelve companies stationed south of the Tehachepi. Full 700 men swept along the street, marching with measured tread. There was the flutter of flags, the tramp of hundreds of feet and the crash and blare of the military band. It was a spectacle to delight the soul of any one with a spark of military fire in his soul.

The men wore all their freshest uniforms, with their brightest equipments. As they marched they now and then

H. Leach, as aldes-decamp. Next followed the first regiment of Royal Foresters of California, their black hats plumed with patriotic red, white and blue, Col. S. R. McCreery commanding the troop. The other officers were: Lleut.-Col. R. W. Martin, Maj. Warden, Sergt. Hershfelt, Capt. Werching, E. F. Bilmyer and W. E. Baden. The Knights of Pythias next appeared, uniformed in blue with white hats decorated with tall waving plumes of red. They marched with such precision that the crowd cheered plumes of red. They marched with such precision that the crowd cheered them again and again as now and then they went through some intricate maneuvers, changing adroitly from single column to fours, and from fours to threes, or deftly wheeling around some corner without breaking their formation. Leading the knights was J. C. Morris, followed by three knights in full armor. The Riverside division made a battallon of twenty-nine and was commanded by Capt. C. O. Alkire. Pasadena furnished Capt. Charles C. Brown and a company of twenty-eight, and the Los Angeles division was twenty-nine strong, with Capt. G. S. Adolph commanding.

CABALLEROS AND INDIANS.

On Prancing Steeds the Cavalier Gained from the Crowd Applauding Cheers.

From a historical point of view the third division was probably most interesting, recalling, as it did, the olden days when the Southwest was called was Cavalry Troop D. The gallant seventy-five sat their horses like soldiers of many years enlistment. First Lieutenant William R. Teale led the troop. Behind him clattered a squadron led by First Lieutenant Thompson. Then came the four buglers. The last two squadrons were in command of Lieut. W. P. James and Sergt. Fredericks, respectively.

The people used to seeing the files of soldiers turn corners like the spoke of a wheel, the inside man beating time, commented much upon the rather discorderly appearance of the companies, as they turned the corners. But it, was all done according to the new tactics, which provide that the outside man must run at turnings, and thus do their, best to avoid being left behind.

The second division of the parade was headed by Maj. G. W. Russell, supported by Capt. R. A. Faulkner, Floyd Green, Capt. A. Jones and Capt. Meenzhuber, mounted on horses decorated with a profusion of flowers and colors. The San Diego Band of twenty-three pleces followed, headed by the notorious "jojo," who assumed a burlesque command. Despite the efforts of the members of the band to compose their faces the smiles would curl round their silver mouthpleces, and the crowd was greatly pleased.

Behind the leaders rode Misses Lillie Walker. Madalina Ybarra, Caroline Ablia, Teresa Laborg and Viola Jaynes. It was the woman's brigade and was composed of dark-eyed Spanish beauties, descendants of the old-time rulers of California.

In the midst of this brigade rode Anna Kessler, daughter of W. J. Kessler. From the tribunes to the end of the route she called forth thunders of applause.

The troop galloped up in front of the throne and halted, while several of the most finished horsemen displayed their skill and the inetiligence of the noble brute that seemed almost one with the riders. One horse lay flat on the ground and took a short nap while his master saluted the Queen with Spanish courtliness. A word and a touch, and he was up again, bearing his rider with him as he rose. It was a glittering and picturesque pageant, and when the magnificent troop finally disappeared around the corner at a ounted on horses equal to the best in

Yesterday they made an unaccustomed sight, and those not posted could hardly tell the difference between the men and the women. In most instances, however, the women carried ollas upon their heads. They wore gay red cloaks thrown about their shoulders, and fluttering in the breeze. Their skirts came to the knee only and their lower limbs were padded with wool and wrapped about with long strips of buckskin. The men for the most part wore the traditional blanket, long topped moccasins and wore about their copper-hued necks a circlet of glittering multi-colored beads. All in all, it was conceded that this was the most interesting division, and the Indians may go back to their pueblos and tell the old men who dwell there of the queer sights they saw beyond the mountains and big rivers, for they may rest assured in the knowledge that a lot of those who stood with mouth agape as they marched by will tell of the Indians and their queer clothes in the far north country.

The fourth division, under command of Capt. Hampton Hutton, assisted by J. P. Randolph, H. Drew, William Dunn, William Matthews and H. Matthews, contained all the allegorical floats of the parade. It abounded in strange contrasts and stranger beings. From lovely women and beautiful children the eye wandered to rough, redshirted miners and painted Indians in their war trappings, hideous as savage art could make them. The gamut was run from fine linen upon bodies good to look upon to the soot, paint and flour-smeared nakedness of the aborigines. But the Indians marched as proudly and were much oftener looked upon than their fair-skinned fellows.

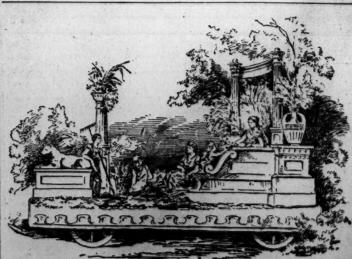

Following Marshal Hutton came the Pasadena band of twenty-five pieces, directed by E. H. Clark and led by Drum-major A. E. Peck, Directly behind was the Pasadena float. Three little fairies, riding in a chariot of roses, held the reins over two gigantic butterfiles. Truly, a fitting allegory of the sun-kissed city of flowers.

An heroic figure of "California," at whose feet crouched an immense grizzly bear, represented the Golden State. In the foreground were four men clad in the habiliments of the miners of '49. With picks and pans they apparently sought the elusive golden metal. J. F. Mullen was in charge.

The sea float showed Nepture rising from the waves, surounded by a trio of mermaids.

With Mercury at the bow, a jolly company of Phoenicians next sailed along. Four sailors journeyed in company with a like number of merchants and their goods. They were commanded by B. L. Clogston.

Blanchard & Fitzgerald's band of eighteen pieces, conducted by H. W. Coomber, preceded the chariot of the Goddess of Fruit, who was impersonated by Miss E. M. Duffy. The goddess was surrounded by two male servitors and four fairies, who did her bidding. The fourth division, under command

Then came the Indians. Followed by small boys, the terror of on-looking infants, paint-smeared, dirty and hideous, they marched; the bucks bravely, the women with stolid indifference. Several of the latter dragged after them a number of small children. One or two had children in arms but most of the youngsters, with the apathy peculiar to their race, trudged along, although plainly very weary. At the head of the band, which numbered sixty-five, rode the chief, a half-breed named J.

L. Weaver. Following him came the most sacred relic of the Temescals, the war-banner of eagle-feathers. It was held aloft by two swarthy standardbearers. The braves were naked to the waist, their bodies being painted in every conceivable color, and in the design most pleasing to the taste of each.
Despite their bloodthirsty appearance, these Indians are in a measure civilized and very friendly. They are known as "Mission Indians." They formed the rear guard of the fourth division.

CHINESE SPLENDOR.

Twenty minutes ahead of time, the Chinese were in position, being the first in the entire procession to form their countrymen, those in line were kept waiting on Ninth street for nearly kept waiting on Ninth street for nearly an hour, while the other divisions were forming. Though not so elaborate a display as that made last year, the Oriental features of the parade were unique and attracted the most lively interest. Gen. Johnstone Jones was the marshal of this division, which was the fifth in line. Mounted on a handsome charger, his military bearing and skill in horsemanship were remarked by many along the line of march. His aides were John C. Cline, Raiph Dominguez, Guy Woodward, Lewis C. Brown and George S. Wilson. All rode spirited horses and their trappings were of unusual elegance, especially those of Mr. Cline's mount, whose saddle and bridle were trimmed with solid silver ornaments, the saddle being Mexican carved leather, high of pommel and with handsomely decorated stirrups. Z. H. Moore was bugler for the marshal

The generals wore fierce moustaches and beards of Oriental cut, made from horsehair and gummed on their faces, or held in place by elastic cords. Their martial appearance was enhanced by gilttering helmets and they bore themselves with the dignity due to the characters assumed.

Four flags pendant from their shoulders, were carried by each of the commanders-in-chief. These were of black, red, green and yellow silk, all elaborately embroidered. The standard-bearers, scarcely less distinguished in appearance, bore flags similar to those carried by those on foot and were similarly costumed.

Immediately after this cavalcadecame the first Chinese band. Its instruments were placed on fixtures borne on poles. after the manner of a sedan chair. The bearers wore red silk tunics and blue trousers. The tunics were bordered in green, and the men wore plain straw hats of American pattern. The musicians were also dressed in silk, having blue blouses, mauve trousers and green shoes of Chinese description. In front of the Queen's throne, an realistic, if not inspiring. The scales different line from that of fighting the flames or subduing the fire flend in any shape.

Forming the sixth division in the parade, the apparatus of the departmentengines, hose carts and hook and ladder wagons—were wreathed and twined, embellished and almost engulfed in a wealth of flowers, arranged in most artistle fashion by the fire laddles and their feminine friends. Every part of the department machinery had been burnished until the steel and brass of the fixtures gleamed with a sheen that would have dazzled the eye but for the chastening effect lent to the metal by the myriad-tinted roses, lilies, carnations and foliage that drooped in graceful curves, about the outlines of the "fire-fighting" machines. The riwalry among the different companies, as to which should win the prizes offered for the best-decorated engines and other apparatus, resulted in the most elaborate and extensive scheme of floral decoration that the members of the department have ever conceived or attempted to carry out. With but one exception every piece of machinery in the parade displayed the marks of patient and at the same time skillful work, in the burden of floral architecture it bore. Attired in their best "bibs and tuckers," which is figurative language for regulation uniforms, with white gloves, black ties and white shirts, and standing collars added, the "fire laddies," without exception, looked every inch like the sturdy, sober, skillful firemen that Chief Moore proudly declares them to be.

THE CHIEF IN HIS GLORY.

Moore, in his regulation alarm wagon, that was gorgeous in a new coat of crimson and golden ochre. The Douglas Military Band and a color escort collowed the Chief, the escort consisting of Firemen T. F. Hays, J. W. Simmons, John Landell, Adolph Guenther and Arnold Cochem. The men carried an immense United States flag presented to the department by the Women's Auxiliary Corps.

A baroucher containing Mayor Rader and Fire Commissioners J. Kuhrts, Louis F. Vetter, L. M. Grider and A. J. Botts, followed the flag, and then came the engine of Company No. 1, driven by Joe Sepulveda, with Engineer H. Heaney at his post. A beautiful bell of roses was suspended over the boller and festoons of the flowers covered the sides and front of the engine. The hose cart of Company No. 1 followed driven by George Vall. No attempt had been made by the driver to decorate his cart, and in this respect he was the one glaring exception to the rule throughout the division.

Chemical Engine No. 1, driven by ing exception to the rule throughout the division.

Chemical Engine No. 1, driven by Charles S. Jenkins, with Capt. W. S. Rowan and Fireman S. B. Reed attached, was a beautiful piece of machinery, and the pride taken in the engine by the men of the company was shown in the decorative work they had placed upon it. Callas and red and white roses were banked in pleasing profusion upon the apparatus, while an American eagle, with wings outspread, surrounded the whole.

FLORAL BEAUTIES. FLORAL BEAUTIES.

FLORAL BEAUTIES.

Carnations, illies and bars of red roses placed at the sides of engine No. 3 made the apparatus a thing of beauty. Driver C. S. Casey and Engineer J. S. Reed handled the machine. The hose cart of the company, driven by M. Moriarty, was decorated in the same manner, the whole being very creditable to the men who conceived the decorations.

The American Star Drum Corps came between Engine No. 2 and Chemical Engine No. 4, the latter being driven by George H. Heady, with Capt. T. J. McDonald and Fireman T. J. McGinley attached. This engine and wagon, for such it is, was simply "out of sight," to use a slang expression, in the manner in which it was decorated. Thousands of white carnations had been used in the scheme of decoration, these being relieved by narrow bands of red flowers of the same sort. The effect was one of exquisite lovellness, and the snow-white doves placed at the four corners of the engine enhanced the beauty of the thing. This engine also hore the beautiful floral bell, made of white roses, with a band of the deep yellow Safrano roses, the effect of the whole being relieved by the green of moss and smilax. The bell was surmounted by a gilt ball and eagle, and was destined for a gift to the officers of the cruiser Philadelphia.

Fire Commissioner J. Kuhrts, noted for his interest displayed in the fire department, with which he has been connected for years, is honored in having one of the massive engines—that of Company No. 3—named for him. The veteran Fire Commissioner had reason yesterday to be proud of the piece of machinery which has his name inscribed upon it, for, in point of beauty of decoration it equalized any piece of machinery which has his name inscribed upon it, for, in point of beauty of decoration it equalized any piece of machinery which has his name inscribed upon it for, in point of beauty of decoration it equalized any piece of machinery which has his name inscribed upon defined the department. A solid wagon, so that a constant medley of sound accompanied him on his course. The Santa Ana band followed him, and behind the music came the engine of company No. 6, driven by Charles P. Harrison, with Engineer John Rohrer accompanying him. A beautiful canopy of flowers overhung the seat of the driver, and shields and stars, made up of carnations and roses, hung from the sides of the engine. The hose-curt of the company followed, decorated profusely with calla lilies, and driven by George W. Carnant.

Chemical company No. 5, had made a floral bower of the combination wagon and chemical engine, using the fireman's helmet as a center-piece for the decorative work. White carmations and green foliage were used with excellent effect in trimming the sides and body of the engine, which was driven by B. W. Trowbridge, and manned by Capt. D. W. Brown and Fireman T. F. Gentry.

The most unique and striking design

W. Trowbridge, and manned by Capt. D. W. Brown and Fireman T. F. Gentry.

The most unique and striking design of the entire lot, although by no means the most elaborate or beautiful, was conceived by engine company No. 7. Under a canopy made up of flest-colored bunting, sat a beautiful child, curly-haired and amiling, while back of him, and supporting the canopy, was a long spiral stem, wound about with illiac-colored flowers, the whole quite symbolic of "Jack in the pulpit." The engine was driven by J. T. Burch, and attended by Engineer P. C. Meyers, the hose-cart of the company being driven by Menry Augustine, with F. F. Hughes in the stoker's place.

Engine company No. 8, driven by J. C. Johnson, and accompanied by Engineer Fred Nessler, was decorated with floral shields, hung from the sides of the engine, while festoons of roses and illies covered the engine's fixtures from view. The hose-cart followed, driven by W. H. Hoag, and accompanied by Stoker J. D. Lawton.

Last in the division came the hook and ladder of company No. 1, which was not as elaborately covered with the spring-time blossoms as the apparatus preceding it, but was yet far from being naked of floral adornments. Callas draped the sides of the machine, and helped to hide the elongation of its make-up.

The royal cortege joined the procession, and accompanied it through-out the line of march, the Queen being everywhere greeted by the cheers of her enthusiastic and admiring subjects in this, her first royal progress through the city.

The grand fiesta concert given last evening at Hazard's Pavilion, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Association and Board of Trade, drew an audience that packed the building from floor to gallery. Andrew Bogart, one of San Francisco's favorite baritones, achieved a popular triumph, singing with much mellowhess and sweetness of tone. He was enthusiastically recalled after his first solo, and presented with several bouquets, including a cluster of pink carnations which the Queen bestowed upon each of the soloists. As an encore, he sang the pathetic little ballad, "Daddie." Mrs. Maude Berry Fisher of San Francisco, who possesses a remarkably sweet and well-cultured soprano, was heard in "Le Pariste d'Amor." giving in response to the persistent applause, "My Latest Love." Mrs. Charles Dickman, also of San Francisco, sang the weird "Hindoo Song." by Bemberg, in which her rich, round, powerful voice, was heard to much advantage. As an encore she sang a dreamy little lullaby with much sympathy and sweetness. Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Dickman were also heard in a mardigal by E. Meyer-Helmund. The accompaniments were played by Mrs. Larrabee. The chorus of nearly three hundred voices, added much to the programme, and the number, "Bright as a Ray," from "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief," received such a cordial reception that a repetition of it was given as an encore. The orchestra, numbering about fifty, did some excellent work, though the selections were, with one, or two exceptions, rather heavy. The programme their proficiency in military tactics as performed on board a man-of-war, and will give a shore drill.

This evening the wonderful pageant illustrative of the Lands of the Sun will occur. It will be a brilliant spectacle, fully equal to yesterday's parade. The floats have been designed in a highly artistic manner and will be seen to great advantage by electric light. The pageant will move at sp.m. in accordance with the general orders issued by M. T. Owens, grand marshal.

The first division will be commanded by Maj. H. M. Russell and headed by the Seventh Regiment band. To the first division have been assigned the lancers and the caballeros, whose previous appearance has been so pleasing. Their place of formation is Hope street, right resting on Seventh street.

and accompanied the staff mounted with mounted Police Officers Ditewig and Woodward.

The Riverside Band of eighteen pieces, under the leadership of J. L. Edmiston, accompanied this division and made a creditable appearance. The uniform was black with black braid ornamentation and black dress caps.

Chan Kiu Sing, Chinese marshal of the division, the well-known interpreter, was mounted and fad as mounted adde Sui Ting, Wong Yoke and Mo Sui Ting, all Chinamen of high degree. Police Officer Shields marched with Wong Yoke just in front of the heralds, who diligently pounded two gongs in an nouncement of the distinguished personages to follow. The gongs were suspended from staffs having banners at their points, trailing down behind the heralds' backs as they marched.

Next came the Chinese flag, used solely for processional purposes. It was a huge, three-cornered ensign, embroidered in gold on plink and green ground, the material being of silk and beautifully brocaded. It required three men to carry it. Behind the flag an infimense silk brocade umbrella was borne, the umbrella-bearer having an assistant to steady the staff should occasion demand. In Chinese use, the umbrella signifies nobility, and is carried behind the Emperor, or other high dignitary, as a token of official standing. It is about three feet in diameter, with long drapery hanging from the edges to a length of four feet. The top and sides of heavy silk in many colors, were adorned in gold, the embroidery representing figures of men and animals.

Their hats were huge, gold-nbroidered affairs, with flattened ont and back, extending down behind the holmets. They carried staffs with unners fifteen inches wide and five tin length. These had wide borres of colored silk and centers of a different color, embroidered heavily in old.

their rich harmonies in handfuls from the instruments as their tuneful spirits prompted.

Back of the music was a float decorated with bunting in flesta colors, on which sat eighteen children of Chinese parentage, who were born in California. The base of the float was painted in blue, like brickwork, above which a frieze of red and white roses with purple sweet peas had been arranged. United States flags at the corner posts attested to the loyalty of the rising generation, and calla lilles were used for other decoration. Hanging baskets, filled with flowers, hung from the corners of the canopy, which was made of bunting. The shower of the precedigg night had made it necessary to recover the float completely. As first prepared, the bunting was pleated in fan shape, clear around the roof and was much handsomer. This having been removed, and there being no time for so elaborate arrangement, the float was covered in the manner shown in the procession.

BABY CHINESE. BABY CHINESE.
On the float the children ranged in ages from four years to ten, and included boys and girls. In their costuming care had been taken to preserve the native style of dress and the cheeks of the little folks were reddened with paint, giving them a very cherubic appearance. Sitting in three tiers, they made a pleasing picture, in which the utmost pride was manifested by their elde.

A red banner was carried after the float on foot. This had a green border and was embroidered in gold. On each side Chinese characters in richly-carved frames, borne on poles, told that the Sons of Wood were coming. After this came priests, burning incense and swinging their censers. The priests were in blue blouses, pink skirts and brown trousers, all of silk. They wore wooden-soled shoes embroidered in gold on blue ground.

Chemical company No. 2 utilized the "old oaken bucket" sentiment, in decorating the engine of the company, the sides of the well being made up of calla lilies, while the bucket was composed of red and yellow roses. The engine was driven by Joe del Valle, and attended by Capt. Charles Fuselier and Fireman J. P. Jacobs.

proved adequate to all requirements. During the time the parade was in progress, rapid transit was suspended and long lines of electric cars were banked up in the business quarter of the city, but the blockade was quickly relieved and the throng moved promptly when the procession had passed.

The utmost good humor prevailed, all appearing to be imbued with the earnival spirit and intent on merry-making. Citizens and visitors vied with one another in lending to the day's festivities their most cordial indorsement. The number of private conveyances on the city streets was very large, but the carriages, for the most part were kept on the side streets and did not greatly embarrass the movements of the procession. C. A. Summer is to be the marshal of the third division, which will be led by the Los Angeles Military Band. It includes the following floats: "Greece," "Arabia," "Africa," "Spain," "Florida," and "Cuba." The Passdena band will march between "Africa" and "Spain." The division will form on Hope street, right on Ninth street.

Gen: Johnstone Jones, marshal of the fourth division, will have the City

Guard band of San Diego, the Jonathan Club, and the Commercial Travelers under his command. His division will form on the west side of Hope street, right on Seventh street.

The Fifth division will be commanded by D. R. Weller. The Ontario and Blanchard-Fitzgerald bands have been detailed to his command. Floats illustrative of "Southern California,"

"California," "The Sea," "Fruit," and "Grain," with those sent in by Pasadena and Cahuenga, will be in this division. Formation will be effected on Hope street, right on Tenth street.

The floats will be manned by people dressed in the costumes of the various countries represented, and the pageant will pass twice before the tribunes. The ornamentation of the floats, as well as their coloring, will lend to the pageant a dazzling effect. It is expected to call out an immense crowd, fully equal in numbers to that which greeted yesterday's-parade.

Like the Queen of La Fiesta, the Chief of the Fire Department was greeted with cheers all along the line of march yesterday. This department made an excellent showing in original and artistic designs.

The naval drill in the street in front of the City Hall, after breaking up of the procession yesterday, was witnessed

Remarks were frequently overheard during the progress of the procession yesterday respecting this city's remarkable increase in population since last year's flesta.

The Chinese dragon was admired by thousands of interested spectators. Some of the little folks wanted to know where it would sleep.

Among the events at the Athletic Park today one of the most picturesque and interesting will be the Rocky Mountain burro race. Among the entries are several burros from the San Gabriel Cañon.

They missed the last train home, so they confided their woes to a policeman, who sent them to the Police Station. The children spent the night in the Receiving Hospital.

A CENTENABIAN.

Long Life of a Man Appearing in Yesterday's Parade.

Ygnacio Francisco de la Cruz Garcia, the aged Mexican who appeared in the fiesta parade yesterday, will be 115 years old, if he lives until the 1st day of May. He was born in Sonora, Mex., in 1781, from two to forty years before twelve of California's twenty missions were built, and three months before the first colony arrived to found the Pueblo de Neustra Senora la Reina de Los Angeles. To corroborate this statement the old man carried in his pocket a translation of his certificate of baptism, certified to by an official of Sonora, that it is a correct copy of the original; also by a notary public of this city. It reads as follows: "At the parochial Church of San José de Garcia on the fourth day of the month of May, in the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty-one, I solemnly baptized a child three days old, whom I named Ygnacio Francisco de la Crus Garcia, said child being the legitimate son of Don José Garcia and Doña Mariana Gonzales, both from Spain. The godfather of said child being Don Felipe Carpena and the godmother Doña Serafins Carpena."

When Francisco was 27 years old he was a soldier-under Carlos IV of Spain, when Mexico was beginning to chafe under the yoke of the mother country. In 1825, in company with Don Juan Maleriu, a friend of his father, he came to Los Angeles. It was then a small pueblo built around the old plaza, which lay southwest of the present one. The pobladores were then worshiping in the small chapel that stood between Buena Vista and New High street before the present Plaza church was completed.

In 1838 Francisco returned to Mexico, one of a company of thirty-six people.

in the small chapel that stood between Buena Vista and New High street before the present Plaza church was completed.

In 1838 Francisco returned to Mexico, one of a company of thirty-six people. On this journey they had some half-breadth escapes from the Indians; himself, wife and a man were captured and held prisoner eleven days, their lives being saved by command of the chief. He thinks he left Mexico the same year for California by way of the Colorado River. In the Santa Feleciana Cañon, some forty miles northwest of Los Angeles, he and Francisco Lopez and another man discovered the first placer gold found in the State, though this date does not coincide with that given by Don Abel Stearns and others. It would not be surprising, however, that there should be a lapse of three or four years in the memory of a man of his age. He is especially fond of having once been a miner worth more than $30,000, but with a miner's luck he lost all his money, and is now a pensioner on the county. The old man narrates excitedly that he was a fine horseman in his younger days, with the national fondness for racing, and that he could make the trip to Mexico on horseback in one month and sixteen days. He was also, he says, a fine dancer, and loved to dance the old Spanish dances.

Don Francisco lives alone, in one of the old adobes on Buena Vista street, and walks from there in to the business part of the city every day, and back later in the day, never neglecting to stop for devotions in the old church where has told his beads for so many years. His memory is better than that of most men fifty years younger; his eyesight and hearing perfect enough to recognize his friends in passing without hesitation; his hair, though white, shows no baldness on the head, and he still retains his third set of teeth.

Last year he rode in the fiesta procession with the caballeros, but this year, to his great grief, he was overlooked. On Tuesday he toiled up the stairs of the Chamber of Commerce with an interpreter and asked the privilege of ri

J. A. Barminster was arrested by Officer Baker at 2:20 o'clock on Spring street, for an offense against the peace of the festival day.

J. J. Doherty was arrested about 7 o'clock for the same offense.

George Armbuster was wandering on First street, carrying a concealed weapon, so Officer Phillips arrested him and sent him to jail. Armbuster went out at once on ball.

Hurt by a Car.

Capt. F. J. Cressey of No. 855 South Flower street was painfully injured yesterday morning while attempting to board an electric car at the corner of Ninth street and Grand avenue. He, was carried in an insensible condition into the grocery store at the corner, and afterward removed to his home, where he is now resting as comfortably as could be expected under the crumstances. He will probably be confined to his bed for several days.

Sam Sing and Ah Louie, two peddlers who plied their trade without a license, falled to appear for trial in the Police Court yesterday, so their $5 ball was applied to the payment of their respective fines. The Moore woman, arrested for soliciting, falled to appear, so her ball also was forfeited. Eight drunks were disposed of.

Lost Her Way Picking Flowers. Lost Her Way Picking Flowers.
Yesterday little Daisy Clark, 10 years old, a stranger in the city, went out to gather wild flowers. She lost her way. W. H. Carey, a dairyman who lives on Temple street, just beyond Temple road, found the child weeping bitterly. She could not tell where her friends were staying, so Mr. Carey took her to his home to spend the night.

atory is to be fitted out with the largest telescopes that have ever been constructed, and they are two in number.

The first is to have a lens five times the size of that of the Lick, and four times the size of that of the Lick, and four times the size of the Yerkes. This is to be an experimental telescope, and if it proves what the projectors claim for it, it will be purely a matter of mechanics to make larger lenses. The intention is to attempt the construction of a lense fifty times the power of that of the Lick Observatory. This is to be done by the adoption of the Gathmann sectional-lens telescope.

Mr. Isham stopped in Chicago to consult Louis Gathmann, the astronomer, in regard to the matter. On October 26 last Prof. Gathmann submitted to President R. A. Thomas of the World's Proctor Memorial Association, at the suggestion of Mr. Isham, a proposition to construct a telescope with a magnifying power four times that of the new Yerkes lens and the indications are that Chicago will furnish the instrument for this big project. In speaking of the Gathmann discovery, Mr. Isham said that he considered him as one of the greatest astronomers of the age. He said that he believed that he had discovered the new law of optics, and that he had done more for astronomy than any man since Galileo.

The World's Proctor Memorial Observatory is not a new project. Ever since the death of the great astronomer of the Cathmann discovery by Mrs. Proctor has been desirous of founding a memorial in his honor. In seeking a site for the proposed memorial, she went to California, and her desire met a response in A. H. Isham who owned the peak of Mount San Miguel Mr. Isham donated this to the great memorial, and on July 4. 1890, the flag of the United States was raised on the site of the new observatory by Mrs. Proctor, who dedicated the spot to the use of science.

Mount San Miguel comprises about 12,000 acres, and has an elevation of 3600 feet. It is eighteen miles from and has a commanding view of San Diego Peninsula and the Isles set forth that every nation contributing is to have a representative astronomer at the observatory. It is to the credit of Chicago, the city of the Columbian Exposition, if she furnishes the man who invents and makes the great telescope for the largest astronomical observatory in the world. Who knows what scientific discoveries may be rade and what facts may be revealed to us through that lens, four times as large as any yet made, and still more, who knows what the researches may reveal when the second great instrument with a lens fifty times as powerful as the Yerkes, is put in place, as I believe it can and will be by Prof. Gathmann's discovery?"

THE QUEEN'S DRESSES

It is rumored that the Queen's robes were purchased in Paris, a story without foundation, as our Gracious Majesty not only bought the materials here but had all gowns made in her home city.

Probably the richest gown in the elaborate wardrobe was the one worn by the Queen on her first appearance, Tuesday evening-a lovely tint of pink satin sprayed copiously with chrysanthemums. The bodice was cut decollete, and rising from the shoulder was a Medici collar of gold lace. The court train was of yellow satin, bordered with ermine and held at either shoulder by jeweled clasps.

The materials and ermine used in making this exquisite creation were all purchased at the Magnificent Masterpiece.

The attention of connoisseurs and critics in the world of art, and of all people of culture and refinement, is especially called to the fact that the lithographic reproduction of this celebrated painting was made under the special personal direction of the artist Moran himself. Every one of the twenty-one component colors used in the printing was first approved by the artist before being put upon the lithographic stone.

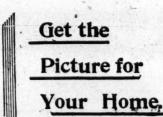

> The Grandeur of the Gorge Portrayed.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado, that wonderland of the world, pictured by an artist whose conception was striking, resistless, grand. Thomas Moran's painting, "THE GRAND CANYON OF THE COLORADO," was the artistic triumph and sensation of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago. The faithfulness of the artist in picturing the awful grandeur of the gorge; the delightful delicacy with which he has touched the rolling clouds of mist; the masterly manner in which he has handled Nature's coloring; that melodrama of flame and gold, and rose and wine and azure, is altogether

New York Republicans Shouting for McKinley.

Ontsiders Talking of Uniting sults of Voting Contests—Sig-difficant Incident at a New York Dinner—Some Facts About Tin. Cleveland and Pattison,

The McKiniey League, No. 29, New York city, has, says the Tribune, issued an address to the Republicans of New York, of which the opening statement as is follows: "The time has come for plain speech. The Hon. Levi P. Morton, though professedly a candidate for President of the United States, is not seriously in the race. He never was, although a Platt State convention pre maturely launched his candidacy and number of eminent Republicans have fusively indorsed him as a mark of their personal friendship and esteem. There is not, however, a man in the Governor's following, whether he be a Platt man or a Mortonite, who does not realize that the Morton canvass is hopeless, and admits as much in pri-vate conversation. Mr. Morton cannot win the Presidential nomination; the why this is impossible are per-pparent." The address con-fectly apparent." The address concludes:

"William McKinley is not only the logical but the leading candidate of the Republican party. He is unquestionably the choice of the great mass of voters, the men who pay the taxes and do the work of the country. Unhampered by the schemes of the politicians, Maj. McKinley would be nominated by acclamation at St. Louis; and he will yet, notwithstanding all efforts on the part of Mr. Platt and Mr. Quay to prevent it, if the honest Republicans of New York State do their duty. William McKinley's opponents in this city and State are, for the most part the men who have disgraced the Republican party by resorting to fraudulent, enrolment and packed primary elections. Mr. McKinley's enemies are our enemies; his friends are our friends; his principles are our principles—the eternal principles of the Republican party."

Talk of Uniting on Quay.

Talk of Uniting on Quay.

A Washington special to the Cincinnati Times-Star says:

"Joseph H. Manley, the Reed manager, who has been out of town for several days, is said to be on a secret mission. Gen. Grosvenor says he is trying to see what can be done in the way of uniting the anti-McKinley element upon Senator Quay if Reed and Allison drop out of the race. The friends of Senator Quay claim that he would make a good compromise candidate, and they further say that if there is probability of nominating Quay, the bability of nominating Quay, the insylavnia delegation will stand by a and that New York will go to him Pennsylavnia delegation will stand by him, and that New York will go to him also. Around this nucleus a large number of votes are expected to gather. Another thing in his favor is said to be the fact that he can secure ample funds for campaign purposes, being better equipped in this regard than any other candidate in the anti-McKinley ranks, the is also a good protectionist, and his battle against the Wilson tariff bill, when that measure was before the Senate, will, it is said, make him especially strong with the manufacturing element. He is also sound on the money question and can command eastern strength in this regard. He is also a splendid organizer and a practical politician. Representative Grosvenor appeared to be fully informed of the anti-McKinley meeting, at which Mr. Manley was selected to make his quiet investigation of Quay's strength if Reed and Allison are not sufficiently strong to deflect the McKinley column. The Ohio Congressman, however, is not the least bit disturbed but, on the con-Ohio Congressman, however, is not the least bit disturbed, but, on the contrary, declares that no combination can be made which will prevent McKinley's nomination."

for him.

A Commercial Advertiser reporter anted him whether he thought McKinley would be nominated.

"Why, the convention at St. Louis will simply be a McKinley ratification meeting," he answered. "The sentiment of the country is for him, and his nomination is a foregone conclusion. The Republicans will meet in St. Louis and the result will be one ballot cast for McKinley. Those who have second choices will not have a chance to vote for them."

"How many delegates will McKinley have from your State?"
"My district is for him, and I can safely say that the sentiment of the peoble in Pennsylvania is also for him, I know that he will be nominated."

Mr. Magee did not care to say much about the candidacy of Senator Quay. When asked whether the delegates for the Senator were in earnest. The replied:
"Mr. Quay is in earnest."
The Pittsburgh leader praised Gov. Morton and said he was an excellent man.

McKinley's Strong Lend.

McKinley's Strong Lead.

(Chicago Times-Herald:) The net regult of the State conventions held this week is further to strengthen the probability of the nomination of Gov. McKinley for President, and the adoption of a thoroughly-sound honest-money platform at St. Louis. . To sum up, McKinley is the first choice of two if not three of the five States which have declared their preference this week, and the second choice of one. Meanwhile he has picked up several district delegations in unexpected quarters.

Another noteworthy incident of the utwass is the fact that, according to turns now at hand, McKinley is now actically assured of a majority of delegates to the Illinois convention, hich will meet at Springfield on the th of April. Five hundred and fortywe have been instructed for him; 119 raide of Cook county and 125 in Cook ounty, although uninstructed, have ediared in his favor. This gives the hic candidate 789 out of 1335 delegates, thout admitting the claims of the county managers to the 104 more elegates in the county yet to elect.

Cortland, Or., Oregonian:) McKinsy's nomination would be hailed with elight, indoubtedly, by free-silver Reublicans, so-called, as a triumph "over he goldbugs of the East." This is a act that justifies to some extent the narving with which New York and twe England people are inclined to taw his candidacy. But McKinley is ndoubtedly safe on the money questage of the famous Bland-Allison act 1178, which provided for the pasact of the famous Bland-Allison act veto. But in the Forty-ninth Congress he voted against Mr. Bland's free-silver bill, and there has never been an authentic denial of McKinley's reported saying that, if the Republicans declared for free coinage, he would have nothing to do with the party. If the St. Louis platform is as decisive on the money issue as that of the majority of State utterances so far recorded, McKinley will be inevitably committed to its support, and to fight upon the free-coinage heresy. McKinley knows the value of New York's vote in the electoral college as well as anybody, though he appears to be looking at the delegations from silver States at St. Louis with a magnifying glass now.

Presidential Preferences.

(Toledo Blade:) The New York Mall and Express has been carrying on a voting contest on Presidential preferences, and it shows that McKinley is as popular with the rank and file of the Republicans of New York City as he is in the West. The first choice stood: McKinley 7936, Reed 1121, Allison 649, Harrison 425, Morton 270, with many scattering votes. The second-choice vote stood: McKinley, 5438, Reed 1041, Allison 326, Harrison 313, Morton 342, Wolcott 34, Lincoln and Foraker 14 each, with many scattering. The "machine" character of the Morton candidacy is shown by the fact that he is only fifth for both first and second choice. Presidential Preferences

In Morton's Town.

(New York Tribune:) A significant incident took place on Monday night at the complimentary dinner given in the twenty-eighth Ward of Brooklyn to Alderman Francisco. The chief object of the dinner was to express the regard of the warders for Alderman Francisco and to present to him a diamond badge. After the dinner speeches were called for and Fire Commissioner William Cullen Bryan was asked to talk upon national topics. This subject naturally called for some mention of Presidential candidates. Mr. Bryant, before he had spoken more than a moment, mentioned Gov. Morton. A moderate amount of applause greeted the Governor's name. Shortly afterward the Fire Commissioner mentioned the name of Ohio's candidate, Maj. McKinley.

The mention of McKinley.

The mention of McKinley's name was the signal for a terrific outburst of applause, which lasted for several minutes. The vast difference in the volumes of cheering for Morton and McKinley was the subject of considerable comment throughout the evening, and was freely discussed in political circles yesterday.

Alderman Francisco said to a Tribune reporter yesterday:

"The feeling against Morton out there is exceedingly bitter, because of his action on the Raines Bill. There are many Germans in the ward, and they would vote only one way if the contest was Morton against McKinley. The McKinley sentiment is irrepressible in the ward, as it is elsewhere. If I were a delegate to the St. Louis convention I would be for Morton, because he is the candidate of the State. But I am not a delegate."

When asked whether New York's Morton voters would pot support Mo. In Morton's Town.

candidate of the State. But I am not a delegate."

When asked whether New York's Morton voters would not support Mc-Kinley after the first or second ballot, Alderman Francisco replied:

"They'll not have the chance. The nomination will be made on the first ballot, and McKinley will be the nominee."

Not Holding Him Down

A Washington special to the Chicago Record says: "It is also believed that the Scnator (Quay) himself would be willing to enter into negotiations if he could do so without violating faith with Platt, Reed, Clarkson and others of the anti-McKinley combine. They have held out to him the probability of the anti-McKinley forces uniting upon him as the opposition candidate after a few ballots if it appears that Reed. have held out to him the probability of the anti-McKinley forces uniting upon him as the opposition candidate after a few ballots if it appears that Reed, Morton and Allison have no prospect of securing the nomination, and they are probably serious, but Mr. Quay is too shrew a politician to bank much upon such a possibility. He has shown a most amiable disposition toward the McKinley people and has taken the election of McKinley delegates in his own State with the greatest good-nature. There is a great deal of uneasiness among the practical politicians in Pennsylvania for fear that McKinley will be nominated on the first ballot, and they will be left outside the breastworks, which feeling will grow when the convention meets and the McKinley minority makes the demonstration they propose. This sentiment was very clearly expressed by a practical man from the western part of the State yesterday, to whom somebody suggested that Senator Quay might withdraw from the canivass if his followers in Pennsylvania did not hold him down. 'Don't fret yourself,' was his reply. 'Nobody is holding Quay down in Pennsylvania. Don't make any such mistake as that. If he should give the slightest sign that he wanted to haul out the boys would let go of him fast enough. Tom Platt is the man that is holding him down.'" olding him down."

A Pertinent Answer

(Chicago Record:) A. M. Green of Chicago inquires for information con-cerning the tin-plate business in the United States, and asks "whether or United States, and asks "whether or not it has turned out to be a fraud, as presented by the opponents of the Mc-Kinley tariff law in 1890 and 1892."

The latest statistics show that seventy-three establishments are now engaged in the united States, where there were only three or four at the time of the passage of the McKinley act, making the total capacity of the American plate mills about 5,200,000 boxes a year. It is claimed, therefore, that the American manufacturers will soon be prepared to supply the entire domestic demand, which comes chiefly from the meat-packers and the oil trade.

The statistics show that the importation of tin-plate has decreased one-half in quantity since the passage of the McKinley law. In 1891 the total imports were 1,033,531,124 pounds, valued at $35,645,076, while in 1895 the imports amounted to 507,075,599 pounds, valued at $12,119,083. This shows also that the price of imported tin-plate is very much less than it was when the high duty was placed upon it, having fallen from 3.5 cents per pound to 2.4 cents per pound since 1891. not it has turned out to be a fraud.

Strong for Cleveland.

(New York letter to Philadelphia Ledger:) The name more often mentioned here in connection with the Democratic convention than any other is that of Grover Cleveland. This has been especially true since Carlisle's recent letter. The sound-money sentiment is very strong for Cleveland, and if the only way to place the Democratic convention on a sound-money platform is by forcing the nomination of Cleveland, it is believed here that the demand for him will grow so powerful that only a peremptory declination on his part will prevent his name going before the convention.

May Get It.

May Get 18.

(Philadelphia Inquirer:) Pattison has not struck the Democrats of the country outside of Pennsylvania favorably. Yet it would be not at all singular should he be nominated. If nobody wants the nomination except Pattison, what on earth is the convention going to do unless it takes him?

They are sensitive about this failure. For nearly all of them are merely the hirelings of San Francisco bosses and millionaires. They simply try to inforce the orders of their San Francisco employers. These facts are thoroughly known here. Outside of the county the true situation is less generally known. It should be known that this boss element politically and otherwise has not hesitated to accomplish its ends by foul means if fair means failed. For years San Diego's progress has been hampered by these attempts at one-man power. Like one-man banks, one-man power in the affairs of a city is a dangerous thing.

Col. Paul Withdraws.

ONTARIO, April 21.—(Special Correspondence.) Col. J. L. Paul of Ontario has withdrawn from the race as candidate to the Republican National Control of the c date to the Republican National Convention. Col. Paul is an old-time Pennsylvania politician and intimate friend of Senator Quay. He has small sympathy, however, with those who are assuming to believe that Quay is a bona fide candidate for President, as will be seen from the following extract from the colonel's letter of withdrawal: "While this is my decision, permit me to say that I am in full accord with the movement in favor of the nomination of Maj. McKinley as our standard-bearer in the coming contest. The protection sentiment being rampant throughout the country, why not place the greatest living exponent of it at the head of our ticket? To my nind he is the only logical candidate in the field. The people are behind Maj. McKinley, while only the bosses are against him, and if they succeed in compassing his defeat in any manner, they will surely be smitten by the mighty hand of public sentiment."

Fond of Contrasts. (Cleveland Leader:) The Democrats of Pennsylvania have an apparently well defined notion that they want Pattison to be their leader in the national campaign. They must be fond of sharp contrasts. The last time he asked for their votes he carried the Keystone State. Put up against McKinley he could not fail to be beaten there by at least 150,000, and that is a big enough difference to hurt even an experienced Bourbon politician's feelings.

(New York Mail and Express:) The Sun now calls it "the McKinley tidal wave." In the same breath it refers to a conference of McKinley's opponents in Washington. It may not be amiss to call attention to the fact that a conto call attention to the fact that a con-ference never yet persuaded a tidal wave or turned it from the business in hand. While the opponents are con-ferring the wave in question seems to be rushing toward the four points of the compass simultaneously.

Concerning Platt Concerning Platt
(New York Tribune:) It is the opinion of the Hudson Republican that Gov.
Morton's name will not be presented to the convention, and that Platt will throw his support to Harrison, unless he can make terms with McKinley.
"Quay," it adds, "is more than a little inclined to support McKinley, while Platt would prefer to take his chances with the ex-President.

Kansas Recovering

(Louisville Commercial:) Kansas i (Louisville Commercial:) Kansas is rapidly recovering from its virulent attack of Populism. But a few months more and Llewelling, Peffer, Jerry Simpson and even Mary Ann Lease will be only remembered as disagreeable otjects thrown up during a spasm of discontent and disaster.

Bitter and Unrelenting Dissent. (Troy Times:) A few Democrats are outspoken in favor of Mr. Cleveland's renomination, and a few others indorse him in a half-hearted way. But these are as nothing to the storm of bitter and unrelenting dissent that come from many directions, and especially from the South and West, and in what have hitherto been Democratic strong-holds.

Almost Certain.

(New York Times:) Though opposed to McKinley, the Democratic Observer of Utica declares that it seems to be almost certain that he will be the Republican candidate, "because he is the real-choice of a large number of delegates who are nominally for some impossible favorite son. The New Hampshire delegates, for example, are for Reed, but at the break they will go for McKinley. On the other hand, the Iowa and some other western men are for Allison, but they cannot be transferred. They are for McKinley after Allison. The opposition to McKinley cannot be consolidated."

All Waiting for Cleveland. (Mail and Express:) There isn't a Democrat in the country who has the courage to announce himself as a candidate for President until he has heard what Mr. Cleveland proposes to do. As an example of supreme and relentless bossism of the most selfish sort, the present tenant of the White House stands at the very head of the class.

Has Not Changed His Brand. (New York Mail and Express:) Suppose Mr. Cleveland should write a letter declining a third term, what would it amount to? In his letter accepting the nomination for his first term he distinctly pledged himself against a second, and he is just as full of his own peculiar brand of human nature now as he was them.

as he was then. Chilly Weather for Platt. (Rome, N. Y., Daily Sentinet.) If Mc-Kinley wins, the New York Boss must be left out in the cold. As this was just what happened to him during the Harrison administration, the prospect is not pleasant for him to contemplate. No wonder he went to Florida to cheer

Beyond Doubt. (New York World:) The nomination of McKinley by the Republicans is set tied beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Only One Ballot (Lyons, N. Y., Republican:) There will be but one ballot at St. Louis. Long before that is concluded, McKinley will be the nominee.

CAMPAIGN SHOTS.

(Chicago Daily News:) Mr. Morton's boom is still on the inside of his barrel. (Chicago News:) Mr. Bland's boom is having wonderful success in unpopu-lated localities.

(Kansas City Star:) Cullom of Illi-nois is still supporting himself for the Presidential nomination. Presidential nomination.

(Kansas City Star:) Bland is not better than his party, but he is not as bad as the crowd with which he is training.

(Washington Post:) In short, Mr.
Cullom proposes to stick to his boom
as long as there is a campaign button on its coat.
(Chicago News:) That sweet little boom of Mr. Cullom's seems to be one of those exquisite little flowers that are "born to blush unseen."

(Washington Post:) The Pattison Presidential boom is sadly handicapped by vivid recollections of that unsu-cessful dash for that Philadelphia Mayoralty.

(Springfield, Mass., Union:) The friends of Mr. Cleveland still insist that he can save the Democratic party; and yet they say that the age of miracles has passed.

has passed.

(Arizona Republican:) An exchange that is against McKinley says he has a mouth like a scoop shovel. No doubt of it. That is why he is scooping all of the other fellows.

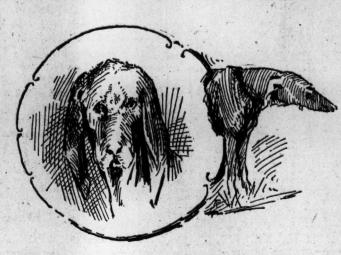

(Chicago Record:) With Tom Platt as business manager and Chauncey M. Depew as press agent predictions of failure for Mr. Morton are not justified

California Described.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch:) The Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, who is in Santa Barbara, Cal., thus describes the place in a letter to a friend: "This place is the kingdom of heaven on earth. The south wind is off the ocean. The north winds are screened from you by a ridge of mountains some 5000 feet high. In the valley between 10,000 people live in a simple way, and all dear Nature smiles to make them happy.

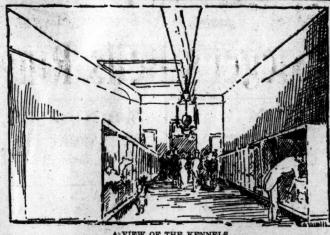

"As for Indians, we have none. And the poor Mexicans and Chinamen are very harmless. The whole place is a curious piece of Indo-China. Lazy is no name for our lives. It seems as if we had nothing to do but to read God's handwriting, to thank Him for His mercles fresh every morning, and simply to 'live in the open air.' You know that is the beginning of all my gospels—or the end of them."

Burglars in Diving Suits.

The Bank of France is not entirely free from nervousness regarding the ability of the burglar and guards itself in a very careful manner. Every day, when the money is put in the vaults in the cellar, masons are waiting and at once wall up the doers with hydraulic mortar. Water is then turned on and kept running until the cellar is flooded. A burglar would thus have to work in a diving suit and break down a cement wall before he could even commence to loot the vaults. When the officers arrive next morning the water is drawn off, the masonry torn down and the vaults opened. The treasures of the Bank of France are better guarded than any other in the world.

A Brave Dector.

(Answers:) There are doctors and doctors, but the most intelligent of all these friends of humanity was one who had the courage recently to give a tit of advice to the head of a family not many miles from Norwich. The head of the family was robust, but exacting, healthy, but irritable—in short, a veritable domestic martinet.

"I don't know what is the matter with my family, doctor," he said, "but my wife is nervous, my children are suffering from something, I don't know what—in fact, the whole house is upset. Even the servants seem vaciliating and bordering on nervous prostration."

"I think it should be all right," said the doctor, "if you were to take a six month's holiday—alone."
"I?" cried paterfamilias, "The only really healthy member of the family;"
"Yes," said the doctor, gravely. "You ought to travel—for the health of your family.

The Pomona Company Still Resists Railway Invasion.

Board of Supervisors Adopts a Humorous Resolution.

Provision is Made for Paying Rubic Canyon Protection District War-rants-Damages Awarded-Many Marriage Licenses Granted.

Nobody at the City Hall even pre-tended to work yesterday, all entering into the festivities of La Flesta. At the Courthouse yesterday but lit-tle was done in the afternion. The Board of Supervisors held a busy morning session and provided for the payment of Rubio Cañon Protection District warrants. Court was in sespayment of Rubio Canon Protection District warrants. Court was in session hearly all day in Departments Two and Three, each having expert witnesses on the stand. The railway condemnation suit was in progress before Judge York and jury, and Judge Noyes of Riverside sat upon Judge Clark's ch in the pump case.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

THE CONTESTED LINE.

The suit in condemnation proceedings against the Pomona Land and Water Company is still in progress. ings against the Fomona Land and Water Company is still in progress before a jury in Department Three. The Southern Pacific is urging the importance of its railway extension, and the defense is strong in able counsel for damages. At an early hour yesterday forenoon the Southern Pacific's construction engineer was in the witnessbox and gave expert testimony as to grades, cuts, etc. Lands of the Pomona Land and Water Company were shown upon a large canvas or hastily designed topographical map, upon which were also lines and markings of the railway extension route. In answer to questions by attorneys, court and jury, the engineer carefully pointed out the proposed work and gave distances, grades and conditions of construction. The action promises to continue theological the jury.

Pump Still Going.

The action of Boothe against Duncan still on trial before Judge Noyes of Is still on trial before Judge Noyes of Riverside in Judge Clark's department. Through this suit the Machinery and Supply Company seeks to recover on the sale of a pump. The defendant alleges damages, and the points at law are being stubbornly contested. Expert evidence is being introduced and the case will not be ended before the latter part of the week. A short recess was taken yesterday afternoon, but at the bar awaiting the return of Judge Noyes, who at once resumed the cause.

Want an Accounting.

Riland C. Goodspeed and E. L. Campbell want an accounting from Frank N. Meyers and Daniel Sullivan, special administrators of the estate of Lucy C. Goodspeed, deceased. The former are sidministrators of the estate of Annie A. Pratt, deceased. Plaintiffs declare that Lucy C. Goodspeed, as administratirs of the estate of Annie A. Pratt, deceased, paid out large sums of money for said estate and died before the same was settled, leaving said account open, and amounts so disbursed unembraced within said account. The Superior Court of San Francisco appointed Meyers and Sullivan special administrators, with power to settle said account and the plaintiffs desire a full accounting between the estates.

Judgment was entered in Justice Young's court yesterday for plainting in the sum of $100, in the cause of Judgment was personal damages by reason of defendant; falling to place lights at a point obstructed by Bell as contractor. Mrs. Judson's knee was severely bruised by falling over an obstruction placed upon the sidewalk.

New Suits.

Anna Garrecht has filed an action against Valentine Garrecht to quiet

Anna Garrecht has filed an action against Valentine Garrecht to quiet title to lot 5 in block 3 of East Los Angeles. The complaint alleges that the parties intermarried in Louisana in 1864 and separated in New York in 1866, and have so lived apart ever since. The property was secured by plaintiff with her own separate earnings, and the husband, while asserting an adverse interest in it, has no legal claim, is further alleged.

S. H. Kingery, administrator with the will annexed of the estate of Fannie Hutchinson, deceased, has brought suit against Maria E. Scoville, administrative of the estate of A. J. Scoville, deceased, to recover $86.30, alleged to be due from the deceased, as administrator of the Hutchinson estate prior to his death. An accounting to determine the amount actually due is prayed for. Chester W. Maxson wants 500 shares of the Los Angeles Petroleum Smelting and Mining Company transferred to him, and for that purpose has filed an action against J. H. Canavan, and the above company. An order is also asked restraining Canavan from transferring said shares pending this action. The instrument alleges that in October, 1895, plaintiff purchased from Canavan the 500 shares for $13.50, paying for same. During the present month it is declared a request for transfer was made and refused. The stock is declared to have a present value of $6 per share, while at the time of purchase the concern was new, and the value of its stock was uncertain and unknown. The plaintiff asserts a belief that the value may reach $10 per share.

W. B. Berry has filed an action against Isabella Berry for dissolution of the bonds of matrimony.

E. E. Henry vs. J. R. Downs and Eme Downs, is the title of a suit filed yesterday to foreclose a lien upon lot 9, block E, of a subdivision in the town of Whittier. The amount involved in the claim of original debt is less than $80.

Mary L. Shaiffer and Satira Shaiffer have filed a petition for probate of the will of George W. Shaiffer, deceased. Property under the will is valued at

States was called in Department Five yesterday morning. This cause is on appeal from Justice Young's court, and is an action to recover compensation for the use of furniture by the Jeffersonian Democratic Club, amounting to about $80. A nice little contest is on the boards, as some of the members claim necessary funds were donated, but from some cause were not applied to this indebtedness, Judgment was entered for the planting in the 10:30 a.m.

Findings were reached yesterday in the action of Samuel H. Kingery, administrator of the estate of Fannie Hutchinson, deceased, against Maria E. Scoville, administratrix of the estate of A. J. Scoville, deceased, for an accounting. The court found that no money was owing the estate of Fannie Hutchinson, deceased, by the estate of A. J. Scoville, deceased, neither in the sum of $86.30, nor any other amount. Decree was entered in Department Six.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

An Old Dictionary Given to the Horticultural Society.

Horticultural Society.

There were no funds in the Rubio Cafion Protection District, and in order to meet emergencies, upon motion of Supervisor Woodward it was ordered that claims against said district be paid out of the general fund, pending collections against said district.

Upon motion of Supervisor Hanley 1100 was transferred from the general road fund to Liano road fund, to be used in the improvement of Almondale and Liano roads.

The following resolution was offered by Supervisor Woodward and unanimously adopted by the board:

'I move that the Building Committee be authorized to provide the Board of Supervisors with a copy of the latest edition of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary (with a suitable text) and that the last sad remains of the ancient and obsolete 50-called lexicon, now neglected and unnoticed, be retired forevermore. And I further move that the 4foresaid dictionary be transferred to the Los Angeles Horticultural Society and commended to its tender mercies and watchful care."

Whittier school's usual claim was disallowed as usual. This time the demand was for the modest sum of $475. A claim for $61.50 from F. S. Jennings, Sheriff of San Diego county, was treated in a like impartial manner.

Upon motion of Supervisor Woodward, Sheriff Burr was allowed one additional turnkey, at a rate of $70 per month, during his services.

The Board of Supervisors adjourned at noon yesterday until 10 o'clock this morning.

(Chicago Record:) The Hon. Thomas Brackett Reed was discoursing the other night concerning the personal peculiarities of his friend and spokesman, the Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., and he said with his down East drawl: "Now, you know, Dingley has got the smallest head of any man in the House of Representatives, but it is chocked full of useful information and nothing else. There is not an atom of waste room in it and all his brain is given up to business. Dingley never did anything that was not useful in all his life. When he lay in his cradle he was thinking out problems in Euclid, and when he was a boy he found more pleasure in studying his lessons than he did in play. I am told by veracious persons who knew Dingley in his youth that his mother used to drive him out to play with a broomstick and forbid him to study more than ten hours a day. Dingley has no humor. He has no capacity for the enjoyment of what the rest of the world calls pleasure. His social instincts are not developed. Why, Dingley would rather take a social instincts are not developed.

His Entrance Explained.

(Boston Budget:) A man who was by occupation a sewing-machine agent, had been elected to the State Legislature. The news, of course, was in the papers the morning after the election. A friend of the new-born lawmaker, who had been for some time away from town exploiting the value of a rival machine, read the tidings, and later in the day chanced to meet another person of the same cult, to whom he communicated them.

"John Johnson!" exclaimed the new-ly-formed, who had also been away and out of touch with the great events that had been passing. "For heaven's sake how did he get into the Legislature?"

"I'm' sure I don't know," said the other. "Probably the other legislators left the door open and he walked in after them."

Very Visionary.

(New York Truth:) "That was quite a blow to Chicago last week." "What was it? Was the page too small to hold the March estimates of the population?" "No, you see, it was this way: One morning they saw what appeared to be quite a big town just southwest of the city. It seemed to lie at somewhat of an elevation, but they annexed it. Well, sir, the whole business turned out to be one of those mirrages, probably of St. Louis, and the blamed thing faded away before they could take the census. Things look so blue since then out in Chicago that you could almost make indigo out of their twilight."

Miss Ella M. Lowry of South Marengo avenue entertained on Monday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Ellas West, who will leave for the East on Saturday. A guessing contest, in which Misses Ruby Lynch and Mabel Schopbach and Messrs. Parker and West were the winners. Miss Lottle Chaifant receiving consolation, was one of the features of the entertainment. Music and dancing were also enjoyed and refreshments were served, the guests receiving favors uniform with the colors of the decorations of the table.

BRILLIANT WEDDING,

One of the most brilliant events of the social season in Pasadena was the marriage this evening of Miss Edna Mabelle Lowe, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Thaddeus S. C. Lowe, to Elwoods Robriage this evening of Miss Edila Mas. belle Lowe, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Thaddeus S. C. Lowe, to Elwoods Roberts Wright of Norristown, Pa.

The halls, parlors and reception rooms of the beautiful home of the bride were decorated in white and yellow, the same color scheme prevailing in the dresses of the bridesmalds, the favors and all the accessories, the effect being artistic and chaste and pleasingly harmonious. The halls were decorated with rare tropical plants, palms and tree ferns being largely in evidence.

Prof. and Mrs. T. S. C. Lowe, assisted by their daughters, Mrs. H. C. Stinson, Mrs. H. C. Brown, Mrs. Heon P. Lowe and Mrs. Thaddeus Lowe, Jr., received the guests in the east parlor, which was decorated in white and green. The mantel was banked with white sweet peas and vases and jardinieres of white illies and carnations were effectively disposed about the rooms. Graceful festoons of smilax were caught up with white satin ribbon against the background of rich draperies and about the frames of mirrors and mouldings. The drawing-room was wholly decorated in the delicate blossoms of the yellow choreopsis. The mantel was banked with them and mammoth jardinieres upon tables and cabinets glowed with them, and here, as in the east parlor, festoons of smilax and maiden-hair ferns were gracefully draped wherever their presence might enhance the artistic effect.

The library was adorned with pale yellow carnations, with fern and smilax accompaniment. The great balcony at the west of the long hall was screened in with canvas. There, behind a mimic forest of palms and tropical plants, the musicians discoursed sweet.

An aisle, made by fastening festoons to columns about two feet high, which ceding the groom and his best man, been P. Lowe, brother of the bride. All wore white lower the treet. They proceeded to the canopy, where, under the soft light of the Moorish lamp, the groom awaled his bride.

Miss Lillian Dobbins of South Basadena and Miss Eva Bond of Toledo, O., preceded the maid of honor and the bride, who entered leaning upon the arm of her father. The bridesmalds wore white satin skirts and pale yellow satin bodices, with bouffant sleeves, made under white tulle, and carried bouquets of white sweet peas tied with pele yellow satin ribon. A miss main of honors has wore well in white satin, the waist being décollete under white tulle, with bouffant sleeves; she carried a bouquet similar to those of the bridesmalds.

The bride was very lovely in a gown of pure white duchesse satin, made with a deal with deep point lace in a bertha effect, pearl passementerie being used to simulate a yoke. Her hair was worn high and was adorned in front with a diamond bar pin fastening the corsage, the gift of the groom. Her bouquet swas of hilles of the valley and madenhair ferns.

The cremony was performed by the Rev. N. H. G. Fife, the soft strains of Schubert's "Traumerei" filling in the pauses, and Mendelssohn's glorious "Wedding March" weaving the tone picture as the background for the congratulations and good wishes of the friends of the newly-wedded pair.

MONEY IN CIRCULATION Published statistics show that there was a small net decrease in the amount of money in circulation during last month, March, amounting to $112,594. The money and builton in the treasury showed a net increase of $14,213,130 for the month. Here all the items showed increases with the exception of national bank notes and silver builton, the decreases in which were respectively, $1,519,540, and $384,680. United States notes led the increase with a gain of $2,223,476, gold builton with a gain of $2,233,179, gold coin with a gain of $2,233,179, gold coin with an increase of $1,900 with an increase of $1,707,584, and subsidiary silver with a gain of $425,888.

THE SILVER MARKET. On the Mrs. Alexander Stowell, Mr. and Mrs. George Stimson, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Torrance, Dr. and Mrs. G. Roscoe Thomas, Miss Turner, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Talcott, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. York, more and Judge and York. Mr. and Mrs. Wright will make an ex-tensive tour of the Coast before leaving for their eastern home. The first annual rollcall of the Bap-tist church took place Tuesday in the church edifice, at the corner of Fair tist church took place Tuesday in the church edifice, at the corner of Fair' Oaks avenue and Locust street, about two hundred and fifty members being present and answering to their names with appropriate quotations of scripture, or greetings from former members of the congregation. The church interior was artistically decorated, set pleces in roses, sheafs of callas and graceful drapery of greenery and flowers adorning the walls, the platform and the choir gallery.

The tables were set in the south room, the ladies of the congregation serving the good cheer provided by their hospitality; two relays of guests enjoyed the refreshment. After the social meah the rollcall proper was held in the main auditorium. Rev. S. S. Fiske of Long Beach, the first pastor of the church, gave a brief historical account of the Baptist Church in Pasadena.

Rev. N. T. Lord supplemented his remarks with an account of the reorganization of the church here, the building of the present house of worship. He paid a loving tribute to the memory of Rev. C. E. Harris, deceased pastor of the church since his pastorate began, and W. B. Van Kirk spoke of the last year as seen by the laymen and from the pew.

Mrs. Pinney read a poem on "Man's Place and Work in the Church," and George F. McCleilan responded sententiously but with effect. C. A. Whitman spoke of Baptist tourists in Pasadena and Mr. Griffith of Grand Falls, N. D., spoke of "Pasadena Baptists as Others See Us." The meeting closed with singing and prayer by fine pastor. It is stated that the hospitable and graceful custom of rollcall, as instituted by the Baptist here Tuesday evening, will be annualy repeated by the church.

THE SILVER MARKET. On the London market, says Dunn's Review, there is but little probability of an early movement in the silver market. The reasons assigned are the ample amounts coming into sight, the defeat of the efforts to arrange an international concerence which might give a basis for temporary speculation in silver, China's inability to buy, and Japan's continued heavy payments for goods bought in Europe. It is not to be expected that India will buy much buillion until there is a considerable advance in Indian products in the European markets. Exports of silver from London to India and China this year have been £1,644, 130, against £2,208,128 a year ago. Prices for the week on the London market ranged from 31¼d., to 31.18d. and on the New York market from 68% cents

COMMERCIAL.

CHEESE EXPORTS. The quantity of American cheese exported has been steadily decreasing, while the exports of Canadian cheese have increased. The of Canadian cheese have increased. The Florida Agriculturist, speaking of this, says: "In 1880 the United States exported cheese to the value of $12,170,000. In 1894 the United States exported cheese to the vau of $7,180,000, a decrease in exports in fourteen years of 40 per cent. In 1880 Canada exported cheese to the value of $3,900,000. In 1894 Canada exported cheese to the value of $15,500,000, an increase in 14 years of nearly 400 per cent. In Canada the manufacture of filled and skimmed cheese is prohibited by law, backed up by strong public sentiment."

IMPORTS OF VEGETABLES. The following facts published in Garden and Forest, New York, should possess some interest for the California agriculturist. It says: "Of the vegetables imported into New York during last week, Bermuda sent 14,068 crates of onions and 1346 crates of other vegetables; Cuba, 2366 crates of other vegetables; Cuba, 2366 crates of other receipts from the South were 4600 barrels of kale, 12,700 barrels of spinach, 7750 crates of cabbage and 5100 crates of other vegetables, while 8500 packages came over the Pennsylvania Railroad. Of course, this is only a partial record of the supply."

CANNED FRUIT. Henry Jacobs of the California Canneries Company, San Francisco, who made a trip to Europe to look into the market there, is quoted in the New York Merchants' Review as saying: "The outlook at present is not very promising, but if the packers would pack a regular grade of fruit and not send too many brands of poor class fruit over to England, we think that bur fruits would take much better than they do, for the future prospect is very promising for the better class of fruits."

MOUNT LOWE.

ECHO MOUNTAIN, April 22.—(Regular Correspondence.) The entertainment of the visiting hotel men yesterday and today was a pleasant occasion. They came to the number of between three and four hundred, and, including the regular guests of the Echo Mountain House and transient visitors, about five hundred people were here yesterday. About two hundred lodged at the hotels last night.

Dr Sarah Hackett-Stevenson, a physician of Chicago, was a guest yesterday. She is also a leader in literary and social circles of that city.

Last evening the cloud effects were perfect for the operation of the search-light, and very many most beautiful effects were brought out, much to the delight of the large number present, who expressed their enthusiasm in frequent applause.

The comet, having passed its meridian on the lith inst, is now receding from us, and will soon be lost to sight. Among the late arrivals at Echo Mountain House and Alpine Tavern were the following: Richard Holmes, Denver, Colo.; W. McClintock, Altadena; Hugo B. Goldsmith, Portland. Or.; F. Rinudy, Los Angeles; Sam Echstein and wife, Oshkosh, Wis.; C. O. Binder, Camden, N.J.; Dr. Sarah Hackett-Stevenson, Charles Hugh Stevenson, Harman S. Cody, Chicago; Rose M. Cody, Pasadena; Marcus Tullius Cleero Potter, Johnstown, N. Y.; Mary Bond, Potter, Adams, N. Y.; C. H. Barlow, Moneta, Cal.; E. Klein, Lomboc; S. J. Newbauer, San Francisco; Frank H. Davis and wife, New York; Albert K. Snively, Redlands; Mrs. F. W. Longle, Mrs. J. W. Elder, San Francisco; Frank H. Davis and wife, New York; George E. Dimock, Elizabeth, N. J. GRAIN EXPORTS. The March report of the grain exports from New Orleans shows an increase, says Bradstreet's, as compared with last year's report for March, from 346,456 to 2,424,242 bushels of corn, and a decrease in wheat from 121,821 to 41,583 bushes. Holland was the principal born buyer, taking nearly 1,000,000 bushels. England, Germany and Belgium together bought almost as much more, and France and Italy only 200,000 bushels each. Mexico's purchase amounted to 80,000 bushels. Nearly 10,000,000 bushels of corn have been exported from New Orleans this year. Over 2,000,000 bushels, or about 23 per cent. of the whole, were shipped from the St. Louis market, and about 50 per cent. of the balance was exported by St. Louis merchants, though the corn did not pass through that city.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The character of the present buil element in stocks was again tested today with the result of a resumption of strength, after liberal realizing orders had spent their force. An increase of the volume of business occurred. Aside from Sugar, the industrial stocks were comparatively neglected. The outset of business was rather discouraging to the holders and owners of securities. London quotations for Americans came fractionally below the close of yestersecuraties. London quoestions for Americans came fractionally below the close of yesterday and realizing orders for European account were executed in the morning. In the early dealings the traders took the bear side, but the combined offerings resulted in causing only fractional concessions in the active list. The increase in gross earnings by Northwesters of $408,000 for the month of March, together with fiestive grain receipts at Chicago, helped the railroad list and particularly and the strength of the strength of the control of activity, and, after called 2 per cent. The factional or against on of the Northern Pacific system both here and abroad, expressed satisfaction at the deposits of all classes of securities, including a majority of the common and preferred stocks. The conversion of mortgage bonds under the terms of the plan has been a marked feature, more than a majority of the coupon bondholders having availed themselves of the privilege. An active inquiry has developed for the new securities of the reorganized company, which will soon be admitted to regular dealings on the Stock Exchange. The new prior-lien fours were in demand today at 87% bid. The market closed strong and active at the top level, Northern Pacific issues continue to absorb interest in the bond market. The English Conquest.

(Chicago Times-Herald:) Joseph Chamberiain's dream of a federated British empire may never be realized politically, but intellectually it is already fulfilled. Influences more potent than politics are federating not only Great Britain and her colonies, but the United States as well, into a community of nations dependent intellectually upon each other and responsive to each other. The advance of the English language is the most thrilling conquest in modern history, and that conquest has not yet passed its earlier stages. Today more persons communicate with each other in a single language than ever before in the world's history. When Rome dominated the world. Latin became the polite language of the more influential classes in her western empire, but its acceptance by the common people was a gradual compromise between the new and the old speech, which ended in the various dialects, out of which grew French, Spanish and Italian. In our own day, as in the past, the swarming millions of India and China speak many dialects, unintelligible one to the other. A Chinese peasant from the West cannot understand the speech of his countrymen at the coast. The most cultivated Hindoos do not pretend to understand the many modern descendants of Sanskrit in the various provinces, and already they use English as the only available means of intercommucation between the rations into which India is divided.

SANTA ANA, April 22.—(Regular Correspondence.) Julian Berdugo must hang for the murder of his cousin, José hang for the murder of his cousin, José Sepulveda, in this city on the night of February 17 last. That is what the jury says. Their verdict was that the defendant was guilty of murder in the first degree, without any recommendation of mercy to the court. Judge Towner finished his charge, which was yery comprehensive and exhaustive, to the jury at 12:30 p.m. today and immediately thereafter the twelve men who were sworn to judge of the case in acwere sworn to judge of the case in accordance with the evidence, filed quitty out to their room to deliberate. At 5 o'clock they announced that they had determined upon a verdict. In a few moments a score or more of spectators assembled in the courtroom and the officers of the court and the legal attendants were present. When the last man of the twelve had silently taken his seat in the jury box. Judge Towner asked: "Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?" "We have," answered Foreman J. S. Rice.

"You may state what it is," spoke the Judge.

Mr. Rice cleared his throat and answered: "Your Honor, we have found the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree."

There was a pause for the foreman to add but "we recommend him to the mercy of the court," etc. but the words were not spoken, and Julian Berdugo sat staring at the court, a doomed man. The verdict meant death by hanging; no alternative.

sat staring at the court, a doomed man. The verdict meant death by hanging; no alternative.

Readers of The Times will remember the crime for which Berdugo must now pay the penalty. Berdugo was paying his attentions to his cousin, José Sepulyeda's sister. Sepulyeda objected to Berdugo's apparent manifestation of love for his sister, and the two quarreled, after which Berdugo vowed that Sepulyeda was his enemy.

On the night of the murder a fierce wind was blowing from the desert. Sepulyeda dressed after supper to go to a dance. He was a little late, and he hurrifed along over the cement sidewalk on South Main street under the drooping branches of the evergreen pepper trees, and, as near as can be learned from the evidence, when he was about half-way between Chestnut avenue and the next street north. Berdugo stepped from behind one of the pepper trees in front of him and, shoving a 45-adilber pistol in his face, fired. The ball entered Sepulyeda's left front cheek just below the eye and passed through his head. He dropped in his tracks and was found a few minutes later by pedestrians in a pool of his own blood. Berdugo went quietly home and later went uptown and bought a plece of to-bacco, after which he went over to the Coroner's office and watched people going in and out viewing the remains of the man he had just slain. Shortly bacco, after which he went over to the Coroner's office and watched people-going in and out viewing the remains of the man he had just slain. Shortly after this he went home and to bed, where he apparently rested well during the night. The next morning he was arrested by Sheriff Nichols and in the afternoon of the same day confessed to the shooting, but claimed that it was im-self-defense. This plea, however, did not avail him much, as the verdict of the jury shows. He has taken a life and in turn his life must be taken.

SHOT IN THE LEG.

the day.

J. S. Carver, an employe in Chandler's second-hand store, was accidentally shot in the leg today (Wednesday,) by a farmer who resides near Anaheim, and whose name could not be learned before he had started on his return to the country.

The farmer took a pistol, a 32-caliber weapon, into the store to trade it for a larger one, and before he had etc.

George Baldwin, the read of the military boys that lined up the sunday to starting the day.

The farmer took a pistol, a 32-caliber weapon, into the store to trade it for weapon, into the store to trade it for a larger one, and before he handed it to Mr. Carver he stated that it was not loaded, and to emphasize his statement, he snapped the hammer several times. Mr. Carver about that times tepped to the edge of the sidewalk to look upstreet for a man that he had sent out on an errand. Just then the farmer snapped the hammer again, presumably to put a double emphasis on his statement to the effect that the thing was not loaded. But it was, and that last snap exploded the cartridge, the bullet striking the cement pavement and then glancing up, imbedded itself in Mr. Carver's thigh. Physicians were called, and they probed for the bullet, but did not succeed in finding it. As the wound was wholly in the fleshy part of the leg, and not liable to give the unfortunate fellow much trouble, it was thought best not to search further for the little leaden missile.

Mr. Carver was at his work again this afternoon a short while after the accident, glad that he was alive. His wife is in Los Angeles attending La Flesta, and Mr. Carver did not send for her, as he wanted her to get her visit out before she returned.

A LEAP-YEAR PARTY.

A correspondent from Newport sends the tollowing account of a most enjoyable leap-year party at that place, for publication in The Times:

One of the most delightful leap-year parties of the season was given a few evenings ago by the young ladies of Newport at the home of Will Warne. The ladies were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Bardsley, and a large farm wagon was at the command of the young ladies who rather timidly but courteously escorted the bashful boys to the residence of the hostess, where everybody was given the freedom of the ranch, so to speak.

Music, social conversation and interesting games were freely indulged in, after which bounteous refreshments were served by the young gentlemen, who, though a little unused to the positions in which they were placed, acquitted themselves with credit, and demonstrated to the ladies that they had a very well-defined idea of their own as to the proper manner of serving the delicacles of the season.

The Enterprise thus reviews the damage by frost during the past few days:

"Reports of the damage done by frost in different sections of the county continue to be received, and it is very evident that the damage has amounted to much more in the aggregate than was at first thought to be the case.

"The early apricots, peaches and such fruits have been injured quite largely in some sections and the crop in such sections will fail far short of earlier anticipations.

the leader of the church, ordered that their store be looted. A party of Mormons gathered in front of the Walkers'

the order, but the two brothers came to the front entrance; and, as they pointed six-shooters at the crowd, M.

heads. These facts were learned from a well-known citizen of Los Angeles.

The local dealers would be glad to get several hundred boxes of grape fruit this very week for $8 or $9 a box, or a carload of 340 boxes for $2600 or $2700. But if there should be a boom in planting grape fruit trees, as many horticulturists think there may many horticulturists think there may soon be, it is more than likely there will be a glut in the grape fruit market and prices. for the stuff will go down to less than the cost of production. agement to the miners and public in general. The fact that San Bernardino produced one-third of all silver found in the State last year, gives this county an added dignity. Nor was it slow in the production of gold, having turned out $130,419.78 in 1894 and $131,360 in 1895. StHl these figures by no means indicate the ability of the county to produce the precious metals. The development of mineral riches during the past two years has shown a great future for the deserts, which indicate that mining is now in its infancy. Moreover, there are vast deposits of silver in the county where the mines are not worked, simply because the value of the metal is so low as to make mining unprofitable.

It is reported that the visit of Lucky Baldwin to San Bernardino a couple of days ago was to arrange for the resumption of work on the famous Lucky Baldwin mine, which has yielded great riches in the past, and from which much is expected in the future.

GEMS OF QUARTZ.

PLACE OF THE AMETHYST AND THE AGATE AMONG GEMS.

Workman Employed Three and One-half Years in Cutting a Crystal Ball Now in the Boston

(CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.) Rock crystal is the purest form of iartz, transparent, colorless, and exhibiting most perfectly the properties of the mineral. It is widely distrib-uted, but is brought chiefly from Brazil. Madagascar, Japan and North Carolina. It is wrought, especially by the Japanese, into polished crystal balls and other articles of elegant ornament. The Romans made much use of it to incise their intaglios, and it has been time of Nero to the present, but espeteenth centuries. Remarkable crystal objects are to be seen in the Louvre, the Green Vaults of Dresden, the Schatz-kammer at Vienna and at Mad-

SOME FAMOUS CRYSTALS. Spheres of rock crystal were used as how stones, and for divination, from show stones, and for divination, from the thirteenth to the eighteenth centuries. The engraving and cutting of some of these was so elaborate as to cost years of work and thousands of dollars. Spheres have been cut up to eight inches in diameter, and valued at from $1000 to $20,000. Nearly the latter price was paid by the late Gov. Ames for the magnificent crystal ball bequeathed to the Boston Fine Arts Museum. This ball measures 185 m.m., or 7½ inches. It was found in 1876. The crystal from which it was cut was 18 inches high, 14½ inches cot Kohl, Japan, originally the property of Naito Arimori, and purchased from Naito Tsukuba for 18,000 yen—about $18,000. It was cut by an old workman who had devoted his entire life to cutting rock crystal balls. This one was started in June, 1891, and finished in December, 1894. The ball weighs 19 pounds. The famous Dresden ball measures 6¾ inches, and weighs 16½ pounds, but is quite imperfect. A five-inch ball cut from material found in Ashe county, N. C., and another of nearly 6 inches in diameter, from the summit of Mt. Antero, Colorado, are now in the Field Columbian Museum in Chicago. Though not entirely perfect, they are quite equal to the crystal balls of the eighteenth century. the thirteenth to the eighteenth cen-THEIR ARTIFICIAL PRODUCTION.

THEIR ARTIFICIAL PRODUCTION.

At Hot Springs, Ark., clear, rolled pebbles found on the banks of the Onachita are often sold. These are more highly prized than the quartz crystals, as the fancy prevalls that they cut clearer gems. The scarcity of these, and the demand for them has led to their artificial production, by putting the crystals into a box which is kept revolving for a few days by water-power. Any expert, however, can discern the difference, since the artificial ones have a little whiter surface.

Many localities in Colorado furnish fine specimens, and along the New Jersey coast and Long Branch, Atlantic City, Cape May and other places, transparent pebbles are found in the sand and are sought after by the visitors who often have them cut as souvenirs. At such places the local lapideries have been known to substitute for pebbles from the beach foreign cut quartz, cairngorm, topaz, crocidolite, Ceylon moonstone and even glass, obtaining twice the value of the foreign gem for the supposed cutting. Sometimes even the stones found by the visitors are exchanged for cut ones from Bohemia, Oldenburg and the Jura. Cutting is done abroad on so large a scale and by labor so poorly paid, that the cut stones can be delivered in this country at one-tenth of the price of cutting here, as the rock-crystal itself has but little value.

THE PLACE OF THE AMETHYSTS AMONG GEMS. THE PLACE OF THE AMETHYSTS

AMONG GEMS. Amethyst is a transparent purple variety of quartz, owing its color to oxide of manganese. It is a very beautiful of manganese. It is a very beautiful stone, much used by the ancients to engrave on, as well as in jewelry; but certain varieties are now but little valued, because not rare enough to be costly. It is found in Brazil. Ceylon, India, the Ural Mountains, etc. In the latter region, near Mursinka, are found superb deep purple gems changing to red by artificial light, some of which have sold for $500 each. For intensity and perfection of color, and one might say majestic beauty, these rival almost any other gem. Smaller but equally fine amethysts occur in Delaware county, Pennsylvania, Maine and North Carolina. Oriental amethyst is a purple variety of sapphire, far more rare and valuable than the ordinary amethyst.

AGATES. AGATES.

Agates are usually formed by the deposit of silica with more or less of coloring oxides, in the cavities of igneous rocks. When the rock disintegrates, they fall out as hard nodules, and are then found on the surface, or frequently strewn along shores, beaches, and the beds of streams. These agate pebbles are abundant on the shores of Lake Superior, and on the beach at Pescardo, Cal., and are gathered as souvenirs, and to some extent cut for local jewelry. Externally they are rough and of little beauty; their veined structure and colors only appearing on 'breaking them, and still more upon polishing. It is made into seals, rings, pencils, handles for swords, knives and forks, mortars for grinding chemicals, bearings for fine balances, beads, studs, ear-rings, trinkets, match boxes, and many other objects.

A peculiar feature of all these agates Agates are usually formed by the de-whose face is known to more people that that of any other woman of the American continent, says the New York Mall and Express. Every man, woman or child who has a silver dollar carries than others, and all the black agate which has now quite replaced jet in mourning jewelry. In the banded varieties, some of the bands are more absorbent than others, and thus the highly-colored black and white onyx, and red and white sardonyx. are produced, and most of the richly-tinted variegated agate is the name given to quaint markings resembling human forms or like objects. The famous Madonna agate in the Vienna collection has thousands of peasant visitors annually.

Moss agate has been much less used during the past twenty years than formerly, the actual sales not exceeding $1000. Since the recent introduction into cheap jeweiry of the Chinese natural green and artificially colored red and yellow moss agate, the sale of the American has greatly fallen off. At Hartville, Wyoo, large masses of mos agate, weighing from forty to fifty pounds each, were recently found in limestone rock. When cut into translucant slabs, they show the magnificent black dendritic or moss-like markings in a most striking manner. Some table tops of this elegant material were exhibited in the Wyoming section of the magnificent black dendritic or moss-like markings in a most striking manner. Some table tops of this elegant material were exhibited in the Wyoming section of the way of making a design for a new silver dollar. After many months of labor the young engraver completed the design for the reverse side of the coin, upon which he represented the American deliberation of agate known is the wonderful series presented to the Harvard mineralogical cabinet by Dr. W. S. Rigelow of Boston. Ruskin wrote upon and presented a fine series of agates to the Hittish museum.

If chalcedony is boiled i molasses and water, blood and water, or sugar and water, until it has absorbed a quantity of the solution, and is then again boiled in sulphuric acid, the transparent hydro-carbon is changed to a charcoal-like substance, and black onyx is produced. When white bands alternate with the chalcedony, they are impenetrable to the coloring and appear clearer and brighter. Black onyx has now almost entirely superseded jet.

The yellow variety is made by first putting the stones in a honey solution, then in a solution of chromate of lead for several days. Digestion for a few weeks in hydrochloric acid, kept at a moderate heat, gives a beautiful clear yellow color to the streaks that were before a dirty brown. This is also erroneously called golden opal. Stones of a reddish hue are greatly improved in brilliancy of color by first thoroughly drying them for weeks in ovens, then dipping them in sulphuric acid, heating to full red heat, and afterward slowly cooling them. The changes that take place in both these processes are upon the oxide of iron which is the coloring matter.

CHANGES WROUGHT BY MODERN CHEMISTRY.

Modern chemistry has wrought great changes in agate coloring, as in other arts, a secret process having been discovered by which chalcedony of any single color can be made to assume any two or more colors, so that an onyx of any shape or variety of colors can be made. If a sunken center of another color is required it can be made so that the figure when cut out remains in a the figure when cut out remains in a hollow, forming a chameo intaglio. In this manner the fine cutting of the cameo is protected. A white figure may be made in a black stone a red figure in a brown stone, or a white one in a red stone. By this process the entire stone is first changed to the color desired for the outer layer, then a cavity is cut in the top and a solution put into it, which alters it to the required color. It is this discovery that has made a formerly valuable onyx worth now only a nominal sum.

Agates are thus made to assume the

a formerly valuable onyx worth now only a nominal sum.

Agates are thus made to assume the onyx character, which is desired by the lapidary for the production of cameos and intaglios in imitation of the antique sculptured gems. In cameos the figures are in relief and of a different color from the ground. Intaglios are usually all of one color. In Persia inscriptions or devices are written on beads of carnelian and other forms of agate with carbonate of soda, and other chemicals; they are then burnt and the inscription appears white in contrast to the other color.

The principal supply of agates for the last hundred years has come from Brazil and other South American countries, where it is mostly found by Germans who leave Oldenburg for that purpose, and who persevere until they find it. Thence it is sent to Germany for cutting, chiefly to Oberstein and Idar. Every fortnight from five to ten tons of the rough material is sold in Idar at public auction, usually in assorted lots of 100 to 200 pounds. The industry yields to the district an annual net profit of half a million dollars; and good agate workmen are among the best paid laborers in Germany, earning from $1.50 to $2 per day.

"What is it about?" inquired the editor, taking it gingerly.

The visitor straightened himself up proudly.

"It is an appeal, sir, to the patriots of this great and glorious republic, sir, to defend the nation's honor at whatever cost of blood and treasure, sir, and the the article I appropriate that I do. in that article I announce that I de-sire to enlist 1000 men at once who will sire to enlist 1000 men at once who will be ready at a moment's notice to lay down their lives with me at their head in defense of liberty and our native land. We must defy all foreign governments, sir, and effete monarchies, and I desire to go upon the record, sir, as a patriot with blood to shed on my country's altar."

as a patriot with blood to shed on my country's altar."

The editor applauded the valor of the visitor, told him there were hundreds like him and took the communication under advisement, where it still is.

TO MARRY A GODDESS. The One Represented on the Silver

Dollar. The announcement that the Goddess of Liberty is about to be married has aroused new interest in the woman whose face is known to more people than that of any other woman of the American continent, says the New York Mail and Express. Every man, woman or child who has a silver dollar carries the handsome profile of the Philadelphia school teacher, Miss Anna W. Williams. Her classic features have been stamped upon millions of the silver disks. whose face is known to more people and forthwith diligently searched for his beauteous maid.

It was a long search, although pleasant. He told his friends of his desires, and one of them spoke of the really classic beauty of Miss Anna Williams. The English designer was introduced to the fifth Mr. Morgan was at once impressed by her beautiful face and studied it carefully. Then he told her what he desired, and she promptly refused to permit herself to be the subject of the design. Her friends, however, induced her to pose before an artist. After five sittings the design was completed.

Mr. Morgan was so enthusiastic that he declared Miss Williams's profile was the most nearly perfect he had seen in England or America. His design for the Bland silver dollar was accepted by Congress, and so the silver coins have been pouring from the mints all these years adorned by the stately face of a Quaker City maiden.

Miss Williams is a decidedly modest woman. She resides on Spring Garden street, not far from the school in which for years she has been employed as an instructor in philosophy and methods in the kindergarten department. She is slightly below the average height, is rather plump and is fair. She carries her figure with a statelliness rarely seen and the pose of the head is exactly as seen on the silver dollar. The features of Miss Williams are reproduced as faithfully as in a good photograph.

Hardly.

(Indianapolis Journal:) "I guess I know what I saw with my own eyes," said the cross-eyed man.
"You wouldn't call that unbiased testimony, would you?" asked the other man.

He Didn't Try.

The skeleton in many a household is the peculiar weakness of the wife and mother, or of the wife who ought to be a mother and is not. Happiness is destroyed by the presence of the secret sickness that may lurk like a grinning death among the most luxurious sickness that may lurk like a grinning death among the most luxurious homes. The most terrible thing about this condition of affairs is that it is entirely needless. There is no reason in the world why every woman in the world should not be strong and healthful and capable of fulfilling her whole duty as a wife and mother. Many women go on month after month, and year after year, becoming weaker and weaker, because of a very natural hesitancy they feel in consulting a physician. They knew that if they go to a doctor for treatment, the first thing he will insist on will be "examination" and "local treatment." This must of course be distasteful to every modest woman. They are generally as unnecessary as they are abhorrent. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures positively, perfectly, permanently, all horrent. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures positively, perfectly, permanently, all varieties of "female weakness" and disease. It is designed to do this one thing, and it does it. It is the only medicine now before the public for woman's peculiar ailments, adapted to her delicate organization by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in these maladies. It cannot do harm in any condition of the system. Its sales exceed the combined sales of all other medicines for women.

Fivery woman will be healthier and happier for following the friendly, practical counsel contained in Dr. Pierce's great universal doctor book: "The People's Common Sense and the People' o. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. y before all are given away if They are going off rapidly.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL.

I just reached Santa Barbara, and I am glad of it, for really it is one of the best little towns in California, and the people are all praising Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, so that puts me in good humor. The gentleman whose portrait I send you is of a retiring disposition and seldom allows newspaper men to interview him. It was my great good fortune to speak to Mr. Banks when he was telling a friend how much good the native sarsaparilla had done him.

He told me that for several mont's past he had suffered from boils and an impoverished condition of the blood. Did not understand why this should be, as he takes much care of his health and is regular and methodical. "However," said he, "I have used Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, and I believe it is the best sarsaparilla that I have ever used. I have used several other sarsaparillas at different times, and I will not say that they are no good, but I will say that none of these sarsaparillas compare with Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Yes, it is true, that the new idea of manufacturing sarsaparilla is the better idea. It used to be the proper thing to to emulsify iodide of potassium with sarsaparilla. Of course, iodide of potassium is a mineral drug that irritates the stomach, and I know it. I know it from experience. I know that using the sarsaparilla with iodide of potassium brings out pimples and boils upon the face. I know that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla contains no iodide of potassium, contains no mineral drugs, because I used it. It did not irritate my stomach, it brought no pimples ou my face, it purified the blood and instantly dried up the eruptions that were on my body.

"Id on not usually speak for publication, but any man would do as I am doing on my body.

"I do not usually speak for publication, but any man would do as I am doing now—recommend that which he knows to be good. I don't think that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla would mend a broken leg, or grow hair on a man's head, but verily I do, believe that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla will put the stomach and bowels in such good order and the blood in so pure a condition that the man of ordinary constitution will certainly feel health and life in every nerve and fiber of the body."

Ispoke to all the druggists in Santa Barbara and they reported wonderful sales for Joy's Sarsaparilla. None of the druggists are substituting "something just as good" for Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Santa Barbara is a small place compared to San Francisco, and if the druggists resorted to cheap methods every one in Santa Barbara would know it, and they would keep away from the substitutor. I am told that the substituting druggists in San Francisco are having a pretty hard time of it. People go into a drugstore now and ask for Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and say that they want it for some one else, so that now there is no more talk about "something just as good." HENRY TILLMAN.
